TSN REPORT CARD

Coaching staff	B	This would have been lower had adjustments not been made on the offensive side, where the genius of new coordinator Marc Trestman could cause the grade to go even higher. Defensive coordinator Dave McGinnis and his staff are strong teachers.
Offensive backfield	B +	These guys get the most improved award. Who would you rather go to war with: Adrian Murrell, Mario Bates and Michael Pittman, or Leeland McElroy, LeShon Johnson and Kevin Bouie? At least now the Cardinals can move the ball.
Receivers	B	There are lots of weapons outside in Rob Moore, Frank Sanders and Eric Metcalf. The tight end will be more a part of the offense this year, which is good news to Chris Gedney, a strong receiver. It's time for Johnny McWilliams to step up behind Gedney.
Offensive line	D	Last year it was an F, but there have been massive changes—literally. There are lots of new guys, and they're all big. But are they good? And can they play together effectively to move the ball on the ground and protect scrambling quarterback Jake Plummer?
Defensive line	A	If it's as good as it looks on paper, it will quickly be an A+. The best player in the draft, Andre Wadsworth, lines up next to a Pro Bowl talent in Eric Swann, who is beside an All-Rookie pick in Mark Smith, who is beside a former NFL defensive rookie of the year in Simeon Rice.
Linebackers	C -	Jamir Miller, a stalwart on the left side, lifts this grade. Ron McKinnon was impressive in the middle as a fill-in, but how effective will he be playing every down? And who will take the right-side spot? The list of candidates is not overwhelming.
Secondary	C -	It's fear of the unknown. Both safeties will be new, and of the six contenders only Van Malone has ever started in the NFL (Detroit). At right corner, Tom Knight needs to settle down after an adventurous rookie season. At left corner, perennial Pro Bowl pick Aeneas Williams is in a world of his own.
Special teams	B -	If Joe Nedney loses the hook and gets consistent on his long-range field goal attempts, the grade goes up. A big question is who will succeed Jeff Feagles as punter. The return game is in good hands with Eric Metcalf, and the coverage units are strong.

Coaching staff	B	Dan Reeves has a knack for keeping games close, and if you do that, you have a chance. His teams aren't exciting, but they're sound and smarter than most. Former NFL head coaches Rich Brooks and Art Shell provide added experience. Defensive line coach Bill Kollar and special teams coach Joe DeCamillis are exceptional.
Offensive backfield	B	Jamal Anderson has rushed for more than 1,000 yards the past two years, and Byron Hanspard ranked third among '97 rookies with 1,375 all-purpose yards. If the line can block for these guys, they'll be productive. Third-down back Harold Green and fullback Bob Christian are more likely to get the ball on pass plays than runs.
Receivers	D	Bert Emanuel signed with the Bucs as a transition free agent, and Michael Haynes, a major disappointment in '97, was waived. That leaves Terance Mathis as the main target and either Todd Kinchen or rookie Jammi German as a likely starter.
Offensive line	C -	The expected offseason overhaul did not occur. Most of the principles are back and they'll be augmented by free agent Corey Louchiey, who started six games for Buffalo last year, and second-round pick Bob Hallen. Ex-Panther Matt Elliott also will get a shot.
Defensive line	B -	Starting right tackle Dan Owens signed with Detroit and wasn't replaced. Chuck Smith, Travis Hall and Lester Archambeau are coming off career years, but critics say they overachieved. Shane Dronett will move from backup to starting right tackle unless '97 second-round pick Nathan Davis comes on.
Linebackers	C	Jessie Tuggle and Cornelius Bennett are nearing the end of their careers, and first-round pick Keith Brooking hasn't played a snap yet. If Brooking pans out, Henri Crockett will move inside and the depth will be better than last year.
Secondary	C +	CBs Ray Buchanan and Ronnie Bradford and Ss Eugene Robinson and William White comprise the best unit the Falcons have had in years. The depth includes former first-round picks Michael Booker and Devin Bush and newcomer Randy Fuller, who started three games for the Steelers last year.
Special teams	A	Morten Andersen is still deadly from long range, and Dan Stryzinski is one of the best hang-time and directional punters in the game. Hanspard returned two kickoffs for touchdowns last year as a rookie. Fourth-round draft choice Tim Dwight takes over on punt returns after leading the nation last year at Iowa.

Coaching staff	C+	As an overall group, they work well but there is no one accountable for running the offense. Some defensive help is needed. Defensive line coach Jacob Burney, assistant head coach/offense Kirk Ferentz and running backs coach Al Lavan draw high marks.
Offensive backfield	B	This group should function well. Errict Rhett is in excellent condition and Jay Graham has bulked up about 10 pounds. If Roosevelt Potts comes close to his past form with the Indianapolis Colts and Jim Harbaugh stays injury free, watch out.
Receivers	C	It will be interesting to see how Jermaine Lewis plays against top-notch corners on the outside instead of nickel backs and safeties in the slot. Michael Jackson is capable of having a big year, but still is not a model of consistency. Rookie Pat Johnson is a year away from having significant impact. Can anyone block?
Offensive line	B	This could develop into a real fine group. New emphasis on the running game will tell if they are one of the better units in the NFL. Four of the five positions have quality players, but left guard is a big question mark.
Defensive line	C +	They have the potential to be one of the best in the league. The group is solid inside and Michael McCrary is a great, young pass rusher. Quality play is limited at the end positions and the group, as a whole, has a history of knee problems.
Linebackers	B	Strongside linebacker Peter Boulware could join middle linebacker Ray Lewis in the Pro Bowl this season. Boulware, though, has to prove he can handle tight ends on running plays. Weakside linebacker Jamie Sharper had a tendency to disappear once in a while in 1997.
Secondary	C -	There are skeptics around the league questioning the signing of cornerback Rod Woodson. The Ravens will start rookie Duane Starks at left cornerback, and maybe a bigger challenge is strong safety Stevon Moore's comeback from major surgery on both knees.
Special teams	C	The units are promising and should be improved, since many first-year players received playing time last season. Punter Greg Montgomery must become more consistent. Kicker Matt Stover is consistent, but don't bet the farm on him during crunch time. Jermaine Lewis was the NFL's top punt returner last season.

Coaching staff	C +	Wade Phillips has only two years of head coaching experience (16-16 record with Denver) and he still has to prove he's more than just a great defensive coordinator. Offensive coordinator Joe Pendry wasn't real popular in Carolina, and Ted Cottrell is in his first year as defensive coordinator. With seven new coaches on board, this staff has some proving to do.
Offensive backfield	B +	Replacing Todd Collins with Rob Johnson at quarterback is akin to trading in a Yugo for a Lexus. Antowain Smith will become the No. 1 back while Thurman Thomas will slide into a specialists role, and both should excel. Sam Gash is the team's first legitimate fullback this decade, and his presence will help make the two-back offense work.
Receivers	B	Andre Reed and Quinn Early are still productive, and Johnson's strong and accurate arm will put their skills to better use. Eric Moulds is a big question mark as the third receiver, and tight end Lonnie Johnson has to start making plays that matter, both as a receiver and a blocker.
Offensive line	C -	Right guard Joe Panos is a big improvement over Corbin Lacina, but the other four positions on a line that allowed 46 sacks remain intact. Jerry Ostroski still has to prove he can play right tackle, and left guard Ruben Brown has to prove his two Pro Bowl appearances were deserved.
Defensive line	A	Right end Bruce Smith will be 35 when the season starts, but he can still rush the passer with a vengeance. Ted Washington is a monster inside, and left end Phil Hansen is vastly underrated. This was the best unit on the team in 1997, and it is again.
Linebackers	B	The switch to the 4-3 defense turns Chris Spielman into a true middle linebacker, but he has to bounce back from serious neck surgery. Bryce Paup is gone, so the heat's on Gabe Northern to replace all those sacks.
Secondary	C	The gang that can't catch needs to do a better job of holding on to interceptions. Right cornerback Thomas Smith is excellent in coverage, but he had no picks in 1997. The team needs big plays, and this unit is due to make a few.
Special teams	C +	It can't get much worse than it was last year, and it won't. Kevin Williams is a superb punt and kickoff returner, the best the Bills have had in years. The coverage teams have vowed to improve dramatically, and kicker Steve Christie and punter Chris Mohr are solid.

Coaching staff	B	Dom Capers and Vic Fangio, the defensive coordinator, have one side of the ball covered and Gil Haskell, the new offensive coordinator, is a vast improvement on the other side over the departed Joe Pendry, now with Buffalo. The rest of the staff is solid.
Offensive backfield	B -	The addition of William Floyd should clear the way to a 1,000-yard season and many touchdowns for Fred Lane. If you don't know who Lane is now, you will by the end of this season. The jury is still out on quarterback Kerry Collins.
Receivers	C -	Outside of tight end Wesley Walls and wideout Mark Carrier, who is getting old and may be phased out, this remains a largely unproven, inexperienced group that did not get the job done last season.
Offensive line	C -	This unit was average at best last season and sometimes much worse. Yet only minor tinkering was done in the offseason, and it remains to be seen how much of a difference Corbin Lacina can make at right guard.
Defensive line	B +	No position group on the team was helped more by offseason attention, with the additions of Sean Gilbert and first-round draft pick Jason Peter expected to help correct last year's most glaring defensive deficiency: inability to stop the run.
Linebackers	B -	Kevin Greene is 36. Lamar Lathon is coming off a two-sack season and knee surgery. Sam Mills has retired. This group still could be great (at least Micheal Barrow will play inside, where he belongs), but there are many questions.
Secondary	B	No team in the league has a combination of three cover cornerbacks like Eric Davis, Doug Evans and Tyrone Poole. The loss of Chad Cota, who signed with the Saints, at strong safety hurts, but the secondary should be solid.
Special teams	B	Michael Bates is one of the game's top kickoff return men, and John Kasay is one of the game's most accurate kickers. The coverage units need to improve on last year's dismal performance.

Coaching staff	C	Dave Wannstedt was a .500 coach (32-32) in his first four years on the job. He must show that last season's 4-12 record was a blip on the screen in order to save some jobs (his and his assistants'). But the six or seven wins he needs to survive may be hard to get in a tough division.
Offensive backfield	B	After a year of indecision that hurt the entire team, Erik Kramer enters the season as the undisputed starting quarterback. Rookie Curtis Enis and veterans Edgar Bennett and Ty Hallock form the best group of running backs the Bears have assembled under Wannstedt.
Receivers	C -	After Curtis Conway, who missed most of last season with a broken collarbone, the Bears lack long-ball threats. Of the returning wideouts except for Conway, none caught a pass covering more than 33 yards last season. Rookie Alonzo Mayes could make tight end a dangerous position in the Chicago offense for the first time in a long time.
Offensive line	B +	This could be one of the NFL's most consistent offensive lines if a center can be found. The best bet at this point is rookie Olin Kreutz. Left tackle Andy Heck and left guard Todd Perry are entering their fifth season playing alongside each other.
Defensive line	D	These guys are pretty good against the run but pretty woeful, except for Jim Flanigan and Mark Thomas, rushing the passer. The hope is that free-agent signee Mike Wells can alleviate some of the double-teaming Flanigan receives.
Linebackers	C -	Barry Minter is a triple-threat throwback who can cover, rush and plug. Ricardo McDonald is being counted on to upgrade the strong side and pass rush.
Secondary	B	The starting cornerback tandem of Tom Carter and Walt Harris can be very good, and safety has been upgraded with the addition of second-round draft choice Tony Parrish. But the lack of a strong front seven hurts.
Special teams	D -	Jeff Jaeger, who is 40-for-49 on field goals in his two seasons with the team, is the only proven bright spot. The coverage units are poor, the return men are suspect and punter Todd Sauerbrun is inconsistent.

Coaching staff	B	Bruce Coslet didn't wait for any players to set the tone for 1998. He did it himself when he sent James Francis and David Dunn home from minicamp for being out of shape. He took good care of defensive coordinator Dick LeBeau, drafting five defensive players among the first six picks.
Offensive backfield	A	It doesn't get much better than Corey Dillon and Ki-Jana Carter sharing time at tailback. Carter brings fresh legs to the lineup when Dillon needs a break. But it'll be Dillon who wears down defenses with his bruising, punishing style behind Brian Milne, one of the league's better blocking fullbacks.
Receivers	A -	Carl Pickens, whose torn groin muscle has healed, continues to be the go-to guy while Darnay Scott will stretch the field. Scott has added strength and bulk but hasn't lost any of his blazing speed. If David Dunn doesn't get his weight under control, James Hundon and Chris Doering are capable third-down replacements.
Offensive line	B +	For the first time in four seasons, the line is set. All five starters return in center Darrick Brilz, guards Rich Braham and Ken Blackınan and tackles Kevin Sargent and Willie Anderson. If the often-injured Sargent goes down, the team has faith Rod Jones can get the job done.
Defensive line	C	The loss of ends Dan Wilkinson (trade to Washington) and John Copeland (torn Achilles' tendon) appeared to send the line into a tailspin. But the position gained credibility with the signings of Michael Bankston anc Clyde Simmons. Look for some four-man fronts on third down to help get pressure on the quarterback.
Linebackers	B	The Bengals helped themselves in the offseason with the acquisition of Jerry Olsavsky and by drafting Auburn's Takeo Spikes and North Carolina's Brian Simmons in the first round. Speed, which was missing in '97, is finally there to help drive the 3-4 defense. The linebackers won't get gashed as often in '98.
Secondary	C	This deserved an F at midseason last year after a 1-7 start. So a C is a dramatic improvement. Right cornerback, which never got solved last season, was drastically upgraded with free agent Thomas Randolph and second-round pick Artrell Hawkins. There are no complaints with safeties Sam Shade and Greg Myers—yet.
Special teams	C +	Doug Pelfrey, the second most accurate field-goal kicker in NFL history (116 of 144 for 80.56 percent), should get more attempts than the 16 he had in '97. Lee Johnson's status as punter is in jeopardy with the emergence of rookie Brad Costello. Look for big plays from kick returner Eric Bieniemy and punt returners Artrell Hawkins and Greg Myers.

Coaching staff	B	Chan Gailey made his mark as an offensive coordinator, and that's why he was hired as the Cowboys new head coach. Early indications of his head coach potential are encouraging. Organized. Disciplined. Even-tempered. Mere presence commands respect. And keeping majority of defensive staff certainly is a plus.
Offensive backfield	B	Those sending Emmitt Smith to pasture are premature. There is nothing wrong with Smith a rebuilt offensive line and an effective passing game won't fix. Not to mention a return of Daryl Johnston, who will attempt to do so after neck surgery, or the addition of Chris Warren. Gailey's arrival has Troy Aikman smiling, a good sign for your team-leading quarterback.
Receivers	C +	Michael Irvin still is the real deal. But after that, who knows. That is why the No. 2 receiver position could be manned by committee, and one loaded with inexperience. Only Ernie Mills has been around the block, but he's trying to make a comeback. Watch for David LaFleur as the complete tight end.
Offensive line	C	How well the Cowboys repair this unit will determine their offensive success. The re-signing of Larry Allen and moving him to left tackle is huge. The turnaround key will be at guard, where Everett McIver was signed to replace Allen on the right side and Nate Newton has been told get in shape or else on the left. Center Clay Shiver must be better.
Defensive line	C +	Having Leon Lett back full-time and Chad Hennings healthy is a good situation to have at defensive tackle. But the mystery remains at end. First-round pick Greg Ellis must be an instant hit, and the club needs production out of Kavika Pittman—an unknown—since veteran Tony Tolbert's health status is a huge question. If this unit does not improve, neither will the Cowboys.
Linebackers	B	Could be a strength of this defense if middle linebacker Fred Strickland can play as well as he did in 1996 when healthy. The outside backers are budding Pro Bowlers, especially strongside linebacker Randall Godfrey. Dexter Coakley should be better with a year's experience. But the backup corps is thin.
Secondary	B +	Was one of the best in the league last year, and should not fall too much with loss of free safety Brock Marion. George Teague gives club some insurance against youthful prospects there, and how good do you really have to be when Deion Sanders and Kevin Smith are on the corners and Pro Bowler Darren Woodson at strong safety?
Special teams	B	With the exception of kickoff return, the specialists are very special, with Deion Sanders returning punts, Richie Cunningham handling place kicks and Toby Gowin punts and kickoffs. Finding a kickoff returner and coverage guys will be the real trick. And if Sanders gets involved in the offense at wide receiver, a punt returner might be needed.

Coaching staff	A	Mike Shanahan gives his players more autonomy than most coaches. He has fewer full-pads practices than any other coach in the league, but he gets his message across to the players: Perform on Sunday—or else. Continuity is a major plus. There have been no changes since Shanahan assembled the staff in 1995.
Offensive backfield	A	Even at 38, John Elway can't carry a team on his shoulders any more. But then, with Terrell Davis around, he doesn't have to. The Broncos are a rarity in that, even if they fall behind, they keep running the ball. The idea is for Davis, who gets stronger as the game progresses, to wear down the opposing defense.
Receivers	B	This group needs to make big plays to stretch the defense and keep the pressure off Davis. By midseason, rookie Marcus Nash could be a big part of the offense. As a group, the receivers aren't among the fastest in the league, but the presence of tight end Shannon Sharpe makes it an above-average unit.
Offensive line	A	What do we need to say? You saw the Super Bowl. The Broncos' line, the only one in the league without a 300-pound starter, dominated the Packers. This group doesn't have any prototypical 325-pound tackles, but it's the best-conditioned line in the league. That's another reason the Broncos' running game is so dangerous in the fourth quarter—especially at home in the altitude.
Defensive line	B	If some key players stay healthy, this could be the most improved unit on the team. Neil Smith and Alfred Williams played last season with two healthy arms between them. The No. 1 reason for optimism, though, is the presence of second-year pro Trevor Pryce at right tackle. Shanahan says that if Pryce had stayed for his senior season at Clemson, he would have been a top-five pick in the '98 draft.
Linebackers	C	The most vulnerable position on the roster, bar none. John Mobley is an emerging superstar and Bill Romanowski is as steady as they get, but there isn't much after those two. Glenn Cadrez, a career outside 'backer, will try to replace Allen Aldridge in the middle. If any of the three get hurt, look out.
Secondary	B	If this group plays as well as it did last season, things should be fine. But that's a big if, what with both safeties, Steve Atwater and Tyrone Braxton, well into their 30s. Atwater's shoulder problems could force him to retire a year early. If Tory James, the would-be starting right corner, doesn't bounce back from knee surgery, depth will be a problem.
Special teams	B	Kicker Jason Elam can't be 3-of-8 again from between 40 and 49 yards. If Elam, who has Pro Bowl ability, bounces back, this could be a major strength. For all the inconsistencies the special teams had last season, they won the battle of field position. The Broncos' average starting field position was their 33, compared to the opposition's 25.

Coaching staff	B	Ross hand-picked an entire new group, which has a much better understanding of the players and what makes them tick with a year's experience. Attention to detail is crucial—including officials blowing whistles at each practice. Motivation and teamwork is not overlooked.
Offensive backfield	A	You're going to flunk Barry Sanders? The second-leading rusher of all time disappointed Ross while holding out from training camp, but it's been a good relationship since. Running with a fullback was not the sole reason for Sanders' 2,053-yard season, but it helped. Tommy Vardell and Cory Schlesinger are called on in goal-line situations and provide scoring punch.
Receivers	B +	Herman Moore and Johnnie Morton are at the top of the receiving class, but they want and deserve more downfield opportunities. Get the ball in the same zip code as Moore and the 6-3 receiver can outjump most defenders and pull it down. Morton's breakthrough season was no fluke. Second-round draft pick Germane Crowell will need to contribute immediately as the third receiver.
Offensive line	B	The right side suffered some with Larry Tharpe's injuries and Juan Roque's inexperience. Kevin Glover's loss cannot be underestimated. Jim Pyne will move to center (he played left guard at Tampa Bay), but the Lions are confident he can fill the gap. Guards Mike Compton and Jeff Hartings are solid, although somewhat undersized. When Ray Roberts missed a few games with injuries, the whole line suffered.
Defensive line	B	The line changed philosophy last season and it was a tough switch. Instead of running down the quarterback on every snap, they worked on stopping the run. It worked: Robert Porcher and Luther Elliss had their best seasons. Tracy Scroggins and Kerwin Waldroup were effective at right end. Dan Owens will replace defensive tackle Mike Wells, who signed with the Bears.
Linebackers	C	Two of the three starters are new to the Silverdome—Rob Fredrickson on the strongside and Allen Aldridge on the weakside replacing Reggie Brown. Both are veterans who should step right into coach Bobby Ross' defensive system. Stephen Boyd, a playmaker, is solid in the middle and constantly pushed by Matt Russell.
Secondary	B	They got to know each other last season, which should enhance their coverage this year. Mark Carrier, a veteran, was new to Detroit and working for much of the season with two rookie cornerbacks—Bryant Westbrook and Kevin Abrams. If Ron Rice can stay injury-free, strong safety will no longer be a weak spot.
Special teams	C	Kick and punt returns are the concern. Moves have been made (including the drafting of first-round pick Terry Fair) to improve the numbers. Field position is crucial, and the Lions suffered in that statistical area. Kicker Jason Hanson is the real thing. Punter John Jett needs to return to the form he showed early in the season.

Coaching staff	A -	As a possible lame duck coach, Mike Holmgren will be looking to make this season his most memorable. But he'll have to work overtime convincing his players that he's not there just for the ride. They look to him for leadership and if he's thinking about the future they won't follow him.
Offensive backfield	A	Dorsey Levens still has to show he's more than a one-hit wonder, but his rigorous off-season training and strong work ethic make his chances of reaching 1,000 yards again pretty good. Overall, there isn't much depth if he should get injured, although there's a good chance free agent Raymont Harris will be added before training camp.
Receivers	B +	A lack of depth at the wide receiver position is troublesome. The duo of Robert Brooks and Antonio Freeman should be almost impossible to stop, but without two other quality players for nickel situations, the offense will suffer. As usual, the tight end position will be vital.
Offensive line	B	Individually, there are no stars, but as a group the line gets the job done. If last year showed anything it's that the run blocking is a lot better than you would expect from this line. It's up to Holmgren to give them the chance to do it.
Defensive line	C -	The middle is strong with Gilbert Brown and Santana Dotson, but the end position could be a nightmare. The worst case scenario would be for Reggie White's back to hurt, Vonnie Holliday's move to end fail and Brown come into camp overweight and miss most of the season with injuries again. Then the Packers can start planning to be home for the holidays.
Linebackers	C	Only Brian Williams stands as a true playmaker and even he tends to disappear in games. The Packers need a huge performance out of Seth Joyner, who never got in a groove in Fritz Shurmur's scheme, or a return to form from George Koonce.
Secondary	B -	So much depends on the development of Darren Sharper. If he can handle the complexities of the free safety position, it will allow Shurmur to do whatever he likes with his schemes. Craig Newsome's physical play should be an inspiration for an otherwise mild-mannered defense.
Special teams	B -	The coverage and blocking units are outstanding, but new special teams coach Johnny Holland has to find a returner. Neither Glyn Milburn nor Roell Preston are Desmond Howard, but they should be better than what the Packers had a year ago. Sean Landeta's task will be to pin opponents inside the 20, something Craig Hentrich had trouble doing last year.

Coaching staff	B	Optimism always accompanies a new coaching staff, but the players seem to be embracing Jim Mora. His intent is to better utilize the talent he has inherited. The team underachieved en route to posting an NFL-worst 3-13 record.
Offensive backfield	B	A young, deep corps of running backs, led by Marshall Faulk, will help ease the initiation of rookie quarterback Peyton Manning.
Receivers	C	Wideout Marvin Harrison is the real deal and tight end Ken Dilger could be, if the team would use him. But supporting those two are rookies, free agents and question marks.
Offensive line	C	Developing cohesion and maturity will be vital as the unit will feature new starters at four positions. Tarik Glenn must be up to the task at left tackle.
Defensive line	B	Ends Dan Footman and Tony Bennett are the primary playmakers in a group that is teeming with blue-collar talent. Tackle Ellis Johnson is due for a breakout season.
Linebackers	D	The success of the unit hinges on Quentin Coryatt finally approaching his potential and 32-year-old Jeff Herrod making a triumphant return. Training camp must produce a proven starter on the left side and experienced depth.
Secondary	B	Solid unit that boasts four experienced starters. Another playmaker to complement free safety Jason Belser would be nice. Corners Jeff Burris and Carlton Gray can cover but lack impact potential.
Special teams	C	An area in dire need of a boost. Punter Chris Gardocki is as good as it gets, but kicker Cary Blanchard needs to rebound from an uneven year. The return teams were abysmal.

Coaching staff	B	Tom Coughlin is a workaholic who continues to earn more and more respect from his players. He runs a tight ship, but players have adjusted to his ways. Offensive coordinator Chris Palmer is a good teacher, who needs to be given more freedom by Coughlin. Defensive coordinator Dick Jauron is a cerebral coach, who has made the best out of a lack of talent in his first three seasons.
Offensive backfield	B -	Quarterback Mark Brunell is coming off an injury-plagued season that slowed his growth. He still went to the Pro Bowl, though, and has a big upside. The team has struggled to find a solid running game, which is why it drafted Fred Taylor with the ninth overall pick. Taylor will push James Stewart for the starting tailback job. The fullback position is a mess, with second-year player Daimon Shelton the only veteran on the roster.
Offensive line	B -	Tony Boselli and Leon Searcy are as good a pair of tackles as there is in the league. Boselli is the best pass-blocking tackle and Searcy improved a bunch in 1997. Left guard Ben Coleman is solid, but the big question is at center, where Michael Cheever is coming off back surgery. When healthy, he is a solid run blocker. The right guard position is a major question area.
Receivers	A	Jimmy Smith and Keenan McCardell are one of the best tandems in the league. Smith is a solid deep threat; McCardell does his damage in the intermediate zones. Both have been to the Pro Bowl. Second-year player Damon Jones has the skills to be the next great tight end in the league. He is big, fast and can block. Pete Mitchell is a solid tight end.
Defensive line	B	The only potential superstar here is third-year end Tony Brackens. Trouble is, he has not played to his potential yet. At the other end, Jeff Lageman and Joel Smeenge are solid but not great. Inside, there are five tackles who have started games, but three—Kelvin Pritchett, Don Davey and John Jurkovic—are coming off major injuries. Second-year player Renaldo Wynn is solid.
Linebackers	B	The addition of Bryce Paup will make this a much better unit. Paup will play the strongside, with Kevin Hardy moving to the weakside. Hardy came into camp last season out of shape, then suffered a knee injury that stunted his play. He takes over for Eddie Robinson, which should help the run defense. The key for this unit will be middle linebacker Bryan Schwartz, who struggled in '97.
Secondary	C	The cornerbacks need to cover better, which is why the team needs a healthy season from Aaron Beasley. He has the skills, but needs to stay on the field. Dave Thomas started on the other side, but he struggles in coverage. Deon Figures is solid. Rookie Donovin Darius may start at free safety, which tells you about the deep secondary. The tackling must improve back there—or else.
Special teams	C	The coverage teams were a major concern last season, but the team feels it has improved there by adding speed. Bryan Barker had an off season in '97, but is still a top-flight punter. Kicker Mike Hollis is solid, but his kickoffs were poor. The return game isn't much, although Bucky Brooks has potential as a kickoff returner. Look for second-year man Mike Logan to take over punt-return duties.

Coaching staff	B	Marty Schottenheimer is a great regular-season coach. Gunther Cunningham is a master defensive coordinator. Jimmy Raye replaces Paul Hackett as offensive coordinator and he has the playmakers to fulfill his promise of a better scoring team. But they have to get to a championship game. Anything less isn't enough.
Offensive backfield	B	This team is quarterback Elvis Grbac's to lead. He will have more decision-making power on the field to prove he can. The spotlight is on halfback Donnell Bennett, who can run but has to prove he can be a scorer. The team is strong at fullback, with Pro Bowl selection Kimble Anders and blocking back Tony Richardson.
Receivers	A	The blockbuster move of the offseason was the acquisition of Derrick Alexander. With Andre Rison and Alexander, defenses will have to play the Chiefs honestly. It's obvious that having both improves the offense's ability to score, but second-year tight end Tony Gonzalez is the X factor. He's primed to have a breakout season.
Offensive line	B	The interior is one of the toughest in the NFL, with guards Will Shields and Dave Szott, and center Tim Grunhard. The team is not as strong at tackle. The Chiefs will use the serviceable duo of Jeff Criswell on the left and Glenn Parker on the right and hope rookie Victor Riley can contribute immediately.
Defensive line	A	The Chiefs grabbed two veterans in the offseason—Chester McGlockton to fill in the middle and end Leslie O'Neal to make the pass rush even stronger. This is the club's deepest unit and the reason why expectations are riding so high.
Linebackers	A	The Chiefs want to use their three starters as much as possible, instead of sending in a short-yardage or goal-line group. Wayne Simmons' force on the tight end blends very well with the speed of Donnie Edwards and Anthony Davis.
Secondary	B	This group, led by Pro Bowl corners Dale Carter and James Hasty and third-year safeties Reggie Tongue and Jerome Woods, makes the pass rush that much more powerful. Aside from nickel back Mark McMillian, a new crop of defensive backs has to provide depth or help on special teams.
Special teams	B	Tamarick Vanover is a valuable commodity as a kick returner. Pete Stoyanovich proved 1996 was an aberration with a great performance in '97 that included a couple of game-winning field goals. But the concern about his short kickoffs isn't going away. Punter Louie Aguiar has taken over those duties in the past two seasons.

Coaching	A -	How can you argue with a guy who has won two Super Bowls in seven seasons as an NFL coach? Jimmy Johnson continued to show restraint in free agency despite the temptation to win right away. One criticism of Johnson, however, may be that he doesn't anticipate the free-agent market very well. The Dolphins should have been more aggressive in their pursuit of Vikings DT John Randle.
Offensive backfield	C +	With QB Dan Marino aging and the offensive emphasis shifting to the running game, the running backs merit a larger part of this grade. As of now, the Dolphins are a little better than average, but a committee running game has its downsides.
Receivers	C -	Until they prove otherwise, there is a lot of mystery to this group and not enough certainty. WR O.J. McDuffie is solid, but not explosive. TE Troy Drayton could be interesting because he'll be on the field more in the new offense. Otherwise, the Dolphins are rolling a lot of dice with the rest of the corps.
Offensive line	B	The addition of G Kevin Donnalley was huge because he's got the nastiness this team hasn't had in years. If the left guard spot can be worked out and a change in attitude brings the rest of the group along, this could develop into a terrific unit.
Defensive line	B	If tackles Daryl Gardener and Tim Bowens play up to their potential, this grade should go way up. The Dolphins were extremely unlucky last year with injuries, but with the addition of rookies Kenny Mixon and Lorenzo Bromell that shouldn't be an issue. If nothing else, the pass rush should be much improved.
Linebackers	B	Zach Thomas is a marvel and fun guy for fans to cheer for. He also has great instincts and makes people around him better. But he isn't a game-changing player. The Dolphins desperately need Derrick Rodgers, Anthony Harris and/or rookie Brad Jackson to take the next step to stardom.
Defensive backs	B	The Dolphins started three players at free safety in each of the past two seasons. With that in mind, free-agent signee Brock Marion must add stability, particularly if the Dolphins are to run the kind of aggressive coverage schemes they want.
Special teams	A -	If Larry Izzo and Kirby Dar Dar return and rookie John Avery is above average as a kickoff and punt returner, the Dolphins might end up with the best special teams in the NFL. This is a great group with a terrific coach in Mike Westhoff. Johnson and Westhoff certainly emphasize it enough.

Coaching staff	B	Many of Dennis Green's problems are self-inflicted, but he still manages to rate highly within his own locker room and win enough to be among the NFL's top third of coaches. Ending his playoff-victory drought helped, but the pressure is back again as he coaches in the final year of his contract.
Offensive backfield	B +	If quarterback Brad Johnson returns healthy from neck surgery, and running back Robert Smith repeats his impact season of 1997, the team will have among the best weapons in the NFC. Backup quarterback Randall Cunningham proved he can still win games and fullback Charles Evans is a useful, versatile veteran.
Receivers	A +	With gifted first-round draft choice Randy Moss added to the mix, this unit could become the best in the NFL. Cris Carter and Jake Reed have an NFL-record four straight 1,000-yard seasons in tandem, and Moss should help shake some double coverage. Tight end Andrew Glover is an athletic target whose hands are iffy.
Defensive line	B -	Any unit with NFL sack leader John Randle can't be too bad, but there is more promise than production surrounding Randle. Ends Derrick Alexander and Fernando Smith must re-prove themselves, and nose tackle Jerry Ball might be pushed by Tony Williams. Ends Stalin Colinet and Duane Clemons are in the hunt for starting jobs.
Linebackers	C	This unit had few playmakers last season, with the exception of rookie Dwayne Rudd, who claimed the weakside spot by year's end. Ed McDaniel is undersized but quick, but he shifts to the middle this year, a run-stopping position. Strong-side starter Dixon Edwards slumped last year. Depth remains a concern.
Secondary	C -	Taken individually, the secondary has some talent. But as a unit it struggled, and the pass defense ranked 29th. Corey Fuller is an average corner and newcomer Jimmy Hitchcock was the team's fourth choice. Strong safety Robert Griffith had a great second half, but free safety Orlando Thomas lost his job late last year to rookie Torrian Gray.
Special teams	B	Veteran kicker Gary Anderson should improve the consistency and punter-kickoff specialist Mitch Berger performed fairly well despite a hip injury last year. Return specialist David Palmer made a host of big plays, especially in the season's second half. Kick and punt coverage remains spotty.

Coaching staff	B	Pete Carroll overcame some difficult conditions to establish himself in the minds of the players a year ago. The addition of Ernie Zampese as offensive coordinator should provide the leadership for the offense to find its level. Defensively, coordinator Steve Sidwell's aggressive style and Carroll's philosophy depend on quickness and this team has the physical skills to make it work.
Offensive backfield	B -	Drew Bledsoe has his detractors but he's been to the Pro Bowl three times in the last four seasons and he's led the league in pass attempts over the last four seasons. The running back situation is considerably less stable. With veterans Curtis Martin, Sam Gash, Keith Byars and David Meggett departed, the Patriots running game is in the hands of a number of untested players. Sedrick Shaw was inactive for 17 of the 18 games last year, his rookie season. Derrick Cullors has started one regular season in his three-year career. Robert Edwards is a rookie.
Receivers	B +	Terry Glenn has spent the offseason working out to guard against the injuries that resulted in his slumping from 90 catches as a rookie to 27 last year. If he stays healthy, he's a game breaking outside threat. If Ben Coates stays healthy, he's a game-breaker on the inside and near the goal line. Shawn Jefferson and rookie Tony Simmons provide the outside speed with Troy Brown, Brian Stablein and Vincent Brisby providing veteran relief.
Offensive line	C	Excellent pass protectors starting their second year together as a unit, keeping Bledsoe healthy despite the fact that he throws the ball so often. Their problem has been generating any push on running plays the last three seasons, even with Curtis Martin in place. The same players will start for the second straight year which may lead to improvement in the running game.
Defensive line	C	Basically an undersized group that has to rely on speed. If Willie McGinest stays healthy, he should make a difference on the outside and the return of Ferric Collons on the outside should help. The problem is finding somebody in the middle to supply pressure without requiring the constant aid of blitzing secondary people.
Linebackers	B +	The starters are quality with Ted Johnson and Chris Slade capable of Pro Bowl seasons. Todd Collins, the third starter, is the best athlete but he's slowing. This is an excellent group against the run but has troubles in pass protection. Second-year man Vernon Crawford could help in that area.
Secondary	A -	Ty Law and Lawyer Milloy are coming off excellent seasons and should only get better. If rookie Tebucky Jones can handle the press corner position, he'll fill in the hole in the lineup from a year ago. Free safety Willie Clay has excellent hands and anticipation while Milloy is a terrific pass rusher from the safety position as well as a tough, physical tackler.
Special teams	B	Even without David Meggett, this should be a plus areas. Kicker Adam Vinatieri and punter Tom Tupa were among the best in the conference last year and the coverage teams have always been good. Somebody has to step up as a punt returner but Derrick Cullors showed a year ago he can handle the duties of being a kickoff man.

Coaching staff	B +	Mike Ditka still has plenty of mountain left to climb following a 6-10 debut. But doubling the team's 1996 victory total was no small feat for him and his staff. Ditka has decided to become more involved in helping coordinator Danny Abramowicz straighten out the NFL's worst offense.
Offensive backfield	C	Signing RB Lamar Smith away from the Seahawks was a major coup. To do so, team officials bested competition from the Chiefs, Rams and Chargers. Making a clean break from RB Mario Bates was another smart move. Standing pat at quarterback, however, was a major mistake.
Receivers	C	Credit general manager Bill Kuharich for the addition of WR Sean Dawkins. Dawkins represents a definite upgrade to a wide receiver corps that didn't exactly strike fear into opposing defenses last year. Opting not to re-sign WR Randal Hill was no major loss. Drafting Cameron Cleeland in the second round brings potential star quality to the tight end position and makes the loss of Irv Smith to the 49ers a wash.
Offensive line	C	This is a group loaded with potential. Three top 10 picks are expected to start in left tackle Willie Roaf, right guard Chris Naeole and rookie Kyle Turley at right tackle. There is plenty of room for improvement after allowing 50 sacks and ranking 27th in rushing in '97.
Defensive line	B +	This group should again be the strongest area of the team despite the retirement of left end Darren Mickell at age 27. Three-year veteran Brady Smith appears ready to take over for Mickell. Left tackle Wayne Martin and right end Joe Johnson continue to be standouts and never take a down off. Right tackle La'Roi Glover is an emerging prospect.
Linebackers	C +	Losing middle linebacker Winfred Tubbs via free agency to the 49ers was a major blow. Tubbs was considered Pro Bowl caliber by the coaching staff after posting a club record 160 tackles in '97. Mark Fields' continued emergence and a healthy and productive season by Brian Jones, Tubbs' replacement, could mean an extra letter grade for this group.
Secondary	C	The question mark here is up the middle at the safety positions. Strong safety Chad Cota is a proven run defender, but can the former Panther hold up against the pass? The same holds true for free safety Sammy Knight. Cornerback appears to be in the capable hands of Alex Molden and ex-49er Tyronne Drakeford. Depth should be no problem.
Special teams	C -	K Doug Brien and P Mark Royals are this group's only salvation. They rank among the best at their position in the league. The same can be said of return specialist Eric Guliford, but he is likely lost for the '98 season with a torn Achilles' tendon. The punt and kickoff coverage units rank among the league's worst.

Coaching staff	A	Jim Fassel could not have had a more successful debut season, winning over the players, management, fans and media. He must build on that by improving the league's 27th-ranked offense and turning QB Danny Kanell into a weapon instead of a caretaker. Defensive coordinator John Fox is a rising star and offensive coordinator Jim Skipper is Fassel's right-hand man.
Offensive backfield	B	It's hard to argue with Kanell's 7-2-1 mark as a starter, but he must step it up against a tougher schedule. He should get help from a deep running back committee headed by fullback Charles Way. Fassel has to figure out what to do with three tailbacks of differing styles: Tiki Barber, Tyrone Wheatley and Gary Brown.
Receivers	C	This position was a solid F in 1997, but there is hope. Ike Hilliard is due back from the spinal surgery that wrecked his rookie season, and the arrival of high draft picks Joe Jurevicius and Brian Alford could be key. Old reliable Chris Calloway figures to start opposite Hilliard. After that, it should be a scramble. This is Amani Toomer's last chance to show something as a Giant.
Offensive line	C +	This unit improved dramatically during the course of last season, but it still doesn't strike fear in opponents' hearts. If the upward curve continues, keyed by impressive second-year starting left tackle Roman Oben and Pro Bowl-caliber right guard Ron Stone, it could be a very solid group, especially in run blocking.
Defensive line	A -	Michael Strahan, Robert Harris and Keith Hamilton are among the best defensive line trios in the NFL. The concerns are at right end, where Chad Bratzke and Cedric Jones both are coming back from serious leg surgeries, and the overall depth, which was hurt by veteran backup Ray Agnew's free-agent defection to the Rams.
Linebackers	B +	On the weak side, Jessie Armstead is an All-Pro, the team's MVP and its strongest leader. But on the strong side, there are question marks. Corey Miller will battle unproven Marcus Buckley and Ryan Phillips for the starting job. Corey Widmer is a solid run-stopper in the middle.
Secondary	A -	The cornerback tandem of Jason Sehorn and Phillippi Sparks is one of the league's best, but depth was hurt by the departure of Thomas Randolph. There is depth at safety, with first-round pick Shaun Williams joining Tito Wooten, Sam Garnes and Percy Ellsworth. Even if Williams doesn't start, he will play.
Special teams	B -	Brad Daluiso is a solid kicker despite his bad start to last season, but second-year punter Brad Maynard, a third-round choice in '97, must pick it up after a disappointing rookie season. The Giants need a major upgrade in the return games, especially on kickoffs. Fassel is thinking about using Sehorn on occasion.

Coaching staff	A	Bill Parcells proved again last season why he's one of the best. His assistants don't get much publicity—largely because Parcells forbids them to talk to the media—but they comprise a top-notch staff. Bill Belichick (defense) and Mike Sweatman (special teams) are terrific.
Offensive backfield	B	Curtis Martin is one of the NFL's top six backs, assuming he has recovered from offseason abdominal surgery. The Jets will go as far as he takes them. Quarterback problems, which may include a full-blown controversy between Glenn Foley and Neil O'Donnell, could haunt the team.
Receivers	B -	Keyshawn Johnson and Wayne Chrebet should haul in 140 balls between them. It's time for unproven Alex Van Dyke to step up. No home-run threats here. Tight ends Kyle Brady and Fred Baxter are blue-collar types.
Offensive line	C	The addition of center Kevin Mawae should stabilize the interior. The guards are so-so. Left tackle Jumbo Elliott, completely recovered from Achilles' surgery, still is a long way from being finished. Who starts at right tackle? Good question.
Defensive line	D +	A weakness, but there is some upside here, thanks to improving tackles Jason Ferguson and Rick Terry. At best, this will be a solid, run-stuffing group. Pass rush? Put it this way: Hugh Douglas, traded to the Eagles, is capable of recording more sacks than the entire Jets line.
Linebackers	B	A fast, tenacious group that will get even better if James Farrior, a '97 first rounder, comes into his own. Now that Marvin Jones proved he can stay healthy for an entire season, let's see if he can become a star. Is this the year Mo Lewis makes the Pro Bowl?
Secondary	C -	Big question marks at free safety and right cornerback. The coaching staff will be tickled if former Nebraska quarterback Scott Frost can win the free-safety job. Thank goodness for Pro Bowl cornerback Aaron Glenn, who holds everything together.
Special teams	B	Sweatman has developed a strong nucleus on the return and coverage units. Kicker John Hall has a chance to be special. He can kick 'em long, but he must learn to kick 'em straight. The punting job is up for grabs.

Coaching staff	C	Jon Gruden seems well equipped to lead a team—bright mind, strong personality—but the jury remains out on him as a head coach. Gruden surrounded himself with a nice mix of youth and experience. This staff is a decided improvement on the '97 version.
Offensive backfield	B	Jeff George has a mighty arm and abundant weapons. Napoleon Kaufman is one of the most explosive halfbacks around. The team still must figure out how to keep Harvey Williams involved. The rest of the backfield—Jon Ritchie, Tim Hall, Chad Levitt—is young and untested.
Receivers	B +	Tim Brown remains one of the NFL's premier wide receivers. He needs continued production from James Jett and tight end Rickey Dudley, so defenses do not double-team Brown. Another proven wide receiver is needed for third-down situations.
Offensive line	C +	The linemen excel as run blockers and wobble occasionally in pass protection. The Raiders often struggle against the blitz, which means opposing defenses will keep blitzing. This grade would be higher if there was more depth along the line.
Defensive line	D	Chester McGlockton's exit means Darrell Russell will get his chance to become a star. Russell Maryland must raise his production to match his work ethic. Lance Johnstone and the other defensive ends need to put some long-lost pressure on the quarterback.
Linebackers	D	Not much speed, not much play-making ability. The team is reaching into unfamiliar terrain to learn if Mike Morton and James Folston can become effective starters. Middle linebacker Greg Biekert is solid against the run and vulnerable in pass coverage.
Secondary	C	The team made an obvious attempt to upgrade here, drafting cornerback Charles Woodson and trading for cornerback Eric Allen and strong safety Anthony Newman. All three players could start, joining free safety Eric Turner. The team desperately needs to intercept more passes.
Special teams	C -	The ingredients are there, from dangerous return man Desmond Howard to speed among his teammates. But results never came in 1997. Leo Araguz prevents opponents from causing much damage on punt returns; Cole Ford must outkick Phil Dawson in training camp to keep his job.

Coaching staff	C -	The team has regressed in all three of Ray Rhodes' seasons as coach and most of it stems from his poor drafts and personnel decisions. The staff is inexperienced and overmatched. Other than Bobby Taylor, no young players have developed under their watch, and the offense is going to miss coordinator Jon Gruden.
Offensive backfield	C +	Quarterback Bobby Hoying is going to make his share of youthful mistakes, but it's time for the team to make him the guy. Charlie Garner and Duce Staley will try to make up for the loss of Ricky Watters, now with the Seahawks.
Receivers	C	This area needed to be addressed in the draft. Can the team count on 36-year-old Irving Fryar to have another All-Pro season? They better. Jeff Graham is decent, but nothing sensational, and Chris T. Jones has had serious knee problems. Tight end is a major question with underachieving Jason Dunn getting one more chance to live up to his immense potential.
Offensive line	C	There should be improvement over the group that allowed 64 sacks last year, the third most in franchise history, but how much is the question. Tra Thomas, a first-round pick from Florida State, has a starting spot, but all rookie left tackles take time. Former All-Pro guard Keith Sims might help if he can return to his 1995 form. Center Steve Everitt looked as out of shape in minicamp as he did all of last season.
Defensive line	C -	Hugh Douglas and Mike Mamula are the two lightest pair of ends in the league. Backup Jon Harris might be the tallest, but he still isn't ready for the NFL. Inside, a rotation of underrated Bill Johnson, Hollis Thomas and Rhett Hall is good enough to get by. But the pass rush is average at best, there isn't much depth and teams may run outside all day.
Linebackers	C +	William Thomas needs to return to All-Pro form. He was bothered by nagging injuries and lack of support last year. James Willis is better than people think in the middle. If the tackles in front of him do anything, he'll make plays. James Darling gets his first full season playing on the outside. He has the intensity to make up for a lack of size.
Secondary	C	Troy Vincent and Bobby Taylor are good cornerbacks. The problem comes at safety and in the nickel and dime defenses. Strong safety Mike Zordich, at 34, should not have to start any longer, but he will. Free safety Brian Dawkins took a step backward in his second season after a promising rookie year. There is no experienced depth behind the starters.
Special teams	C	Kicker Chris Boniol needs a big bounce back season and rookie return man Allen Rossum, the third-round draft pick out of Notre Dame, better be as good as advertised, or this group could really falter. John Harbaugh is the team's third special-teams coach in three years and has to do a better job than his two predecessors.

Coaching staff	A	Bill Cowher might be the best coach in the game. He has been in the playoffs every year since replacing Chuck Noll six years ago, and only Paul Brown had similar success in his first six seasons. Cowher is daring, well-prepared and his players respond to his bombastic, fiery style.
Offensive backfield	B +	Jerome Bettis is one of the NFL's best backs, certainly the one with the best combination of power and agility. His blocking back, Tim Lester, is a step away from the Pro Bowl. Kordell Stewart made so much progress in his first year as a starting quarterback it's scary.
Receivers	B -	The loss of Yancey Thigpen will hurt, but it might allow Charles Johnson to reach his awesome potential. There are a lot of young receivers to help ease the loss of Thigpen, but it might take them a couple of years to develop.
Offensive line	B	One of the best units in the NFL took a hit with the loss of left tackle John Jackson. But Dermontti Dawson is the best center in the league and guard Will Wolford has played like he belongs in the Pro Bowl the past two seasons. Justin Strzelczyk, who moves from right to left tackle, might be the most underrated offensive lineman in the league.
Defensive line	B -	Joel Steed finally made it to the Pro Bowl last season, but all his play did was overshadow the performance of end Kevin Henry, who got better and better each week. By the end of the season, Henry and Nolan Harrison joined Steed to form a formidable three-man front that stopped the run and got pressure on the quarterback.
Linebackers	A -	Greg Lloyd, a former five-time Pro Bowl player, remains a question mark because of his health. Still, this remains the strongest unit on the team. The inside tandem of Levon Kirkland and Earl Holmes is the biggest and most physical in the league. If Lloyd is gone, his replacement will be Mike Vrabel, who is big, fast and athletic.
Secondary	C	This area remains the biggest question mark on the team because of uncertainty at cornerback. Chad Scott, a first-round pick a year ago, tore the anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee during an offseason workout and could miss the season. Carnell Lake is the best strong safety in the NFL, but he might have to play cornerback again with Scott injured. Donnell Woolford, a free-agent disappointment last year, has been replaced by '98 free agent Dewayne Washington.
Special teams	D	The Steelers did not block a punt, field goal or extra point last year and forced only two fumbles. What's more, they never did settle on a good punt-return man. And punter Josh Miller became a weekly liability despite having a strong leg. The biggest plus turned out to be re-signing kicker Norm Johnson, who refuses to act his age (38).

Coaching staff	B	There are too many veteran coaches who have had long runs of success in the NFL for this team not to do better. With help from co-coordinator John Bunting, young but talented Peter Giunta should continue the improvement made last season by now-retired Bud Carson on defense.
Offensive backfield	C -	The Rams have two years invested in Tony Banks as a starting quarterback; they're hoping to see some dividends this season. Save for Amp Lee, there's nothing but unproven talent at running back. Robert Holcombe and Jerald Moore should get the tough yards, and more. But there's no home run threat.
Receivers	B -	The signing of Ricky Proehl helps, as does the drafting of Az-zahir Hakim. But this group will be little more than slightly above average—even with Isaac Bruce healthy—unless Eddie Kennison approximates his 1996 play. A more sure-handed Ernie Conwell at tight end would be a big plus.
Offensive line	C	Take away Wayne Gandy, and the rest of the projected starting five has only 59 pro starts. And the NFL isn't exactly the best forum for on-the-job training. Orlando Pace should be fine. But if center Mike Gruttadauria and guards Zach Wiegert and Ryan Tucker aren't up to the task, it will be a long season for the offense.
Defensive line	C	Replacing Leslie O'Neal with Grant Wistrom at end, and Bill Johnson with Ray Agnew and Joe Phillips at tackle looks like a push. The Rams need a breakthrough year from end Kevin Carter and a return to 1995 form by tackle D'Marco Farr. Keep an eye on rookie Leonard Little in passing situations.
Linebackers	C +	This unit needs to make more plays than it did last year, whether it's sacking the quarterback on blitzes, stopping the running back behind the line, forcing a fumble or knocking away a pass. The addition of Eric Hill helps the run defense, but Roman Phifer needs to approach his play of '95 and '96.
Secondary	B -	A healthy Toby Wright at strong safety would work wonders for this unit. When on his game, Wright is the heart and soul of the defense and an intimidating presence on run support. Todd Lyght and Ryan McNeil are above-average corners. Ball-hawking Keith Lyle is a Pro Bowl-caliber free safety.
Special teams	C	There should be improvement across the board here, especially with the addition of Rick Tuten at punter and the potential pairing of David Thompson and rookie Az-zahir Hakim on kickoff returns.

Coaching staff	D	Kevin Gilbride's rookie year was torpedoed by numerous injuries. Still, it's unclear whether Gilbride, who had been a successful offensive coordinator with the Oilers and Jaguars, can cut it as a head coach. He needs to distribute responsibility better; he has two able lieutenants in Joe Bugel and June Jones.
Offensive backfield	C	If Natrone Means runs like he did during his first San Diego stint, the team will be pleased. He is still young enough to have an impact, but he also has been slowed by nagging injuries the past two years in Jacksonville. Behind Means, there isn't much: an undersized Terrell Fletcher and a speedy but unproven Kenny Bynum.
Receivers	C -	Tony Martin should be a Pro Bowl player in Gilbride's pass-happy system, but he can't do it alone. Again, he enters the season without a proven receiver on the other side. Bryan Still has been a bust and Eric Metcalf is in Arizona. The team hopes 6-5 rookie Mikhael Ricks can contribute.
Offensive line	B -	The additions of John Jackson, Aaron Taylor and Roman Fortin are huge. Same goes for line guru Joe Bugel, who joined Gilbride's staff after being fired by the Raiders. Still, this unit has to prove it can mesh quickly and be productive.
Defensive line	C -	The middle is decent with the return of Reuben Davis; John Parrella is solid, if not flashy. But the overpriced ends—Marco Coleman and William Fuller—have to step up. The line collected a measly 15 sacks in '97.
Linebackers	C	Any unit with Junior Seau has to be respected. But the energetic Seau isn't a kid anymore and that's also true for Kurt Gouveia (13th year) in the middle. A banged-up Gouveia won't last the year. Lewis Bush is adequate on the outside and Gerald Dixon (8.5 sacks), a free-agent pickup from Cincinnati, will help.
Secondary	C	Keep an eye on strong safety Rodney Harrison. His stellar year got overlooked in the 4-12 pileup. The rest of the defensive backs are average. Veteran corner Dwayne Harper is steady, but he has trouble staying on the field because of injuries. Terrance Shaw, the other corner, is in the last year of his contract and will be motivated.
Special teams	C +	Eric Metcalf's punt returns will be missed; the team hopes Charlie Jones and Bryan Still can compensate. The kickoff-return game should be OK with Latario Rachal. Kicker John Carney is back after missing most of last year with a knee injury; Darren Bennett is among the NFL's top punters.

Coaching staff	A -	Steve Mariucci did extremely well not letting his spirit or his team sink after a disastrous start last year. Mariucci has all the qualities needed in a head coach: enthusiasm, organization, and intelligence. If there's a knock on him its that he's too organized and too concerned with statistics. Nevertheless, he's well thought of by his fellow coaches, players, and his management.
Offensive backfield	B	The running game was emphasized for the first time in five seasons. Garrison Hearst is quick, has great vision, and is capable of breaking the long run. Marc Edwards takes over at fullback, and most feel he's ready. Chuck Levy has unique skills as a backup and speciality down player. Depth is the only concern.
Offensive line	B	Coaches are concerned about Derrick Deese at right tackle. He's really a guard, and is viewed as undersized. Still, Deese is the best athlete on the line and will improve over last year when he was pressed into duty at left tackle. This year's left tackle, Jamie Brown, is a question mark. He looked good last year backing up Gary Zimmerman in Denver, but it's interesting Denver didn't hang on to him. Otherwise, the line is solid.
Receivers	A -	Jerry Rice hasn't gotten the chance to star in a Steve Mariucci offense, and that could be a winning combination. J.J. Stokes and Terrell Owens came on last year, and will only get better. Iheanyi Uwaezuoke, Mark Harris and seventh-round pick Ryan Thelwell provide excellent depth.
Defensive line	B	With Kevin Greene, Dana Stubblefield and possibly Chris Doleman gone, the line won't be as strong. If free-agent signee Gabe Wilkins isn't ready for the start of the season after knee surgery, the grade drops to a C+. Bryant Young and Roy Barker have to stay healthy for this unit to be effective.
Linebackers	B -	Winfred Tubbs could help ease the loss of Stubblefield, who was an expert run player. Tubbs could be the team's best free-agent signing. Ken Norton routinely leads the team in tackles but may be slowing down. Lee Woodall was inconsistent last year, and there is a lack of depth, particularly at inside linebacker.
Secondary	B +	This backfield could take over as the strength of the defense if Marquez Pope and safety Merton Hanks rebound from injuries. There have been questions about free agent Antonio Langham's cover skills, but he has been impressive in the offseason. Darnell Walker and rookie R.W. McQuarters provide excellent depth at corner. That can't be said for safety.
Special teams	B	McQuarters and Chuck Levy are talented return men. Anthony Peterson will bolster coverage units as will rookies Fred Beasley and Lance Schulters. The kicking game could suffer without a veteran place kicker, but field position is expected to improve with deeper kickoffs.

Coaching staff	C	Dennis Erickson is not an average coach, but his record in three seasons with the Seahawks is an unimpressive 23-25. Erickson lost five assistants to other teams in the offseason, including three who had the bulk of NFL experience on his staff — Howard Mudd, Mike Murphy and Clarence Shelmon.
Offensive backfield	B +	The Seahawks are hooking their hopes of reaching the playoffs for the first time since 1988 to a 41-year-old quarterback (Warren Moon) and a 29-year-old running back (Ricky Watters). In addition to age, these two have one other thing in common: Production.
Offensive line	C +	The Seahawks are shuffling their starting unit for the 10th straight season. But this time, the moves are upgrades as C Kevin Glover and RG Brian Habib slide in between LT Walter Jones, LG Pete Kendall and RT Howard Ballard. Two questions: How long will it take them to mesh? And, how long will Ballard's right knee hold up?
Receivers	B	Joey Galloway is developing the overall game to complement his speed, but the best thing that has happened to him is the emergence of James McKnight and the rebirth of Mike Pritchard. Now if Brian Blades' battered body can just make it through an entire season.
Defensive line	B	RT Cortez Kennedy and LE Michael Sinclair have been to the Pro Bowl, and LT Sam Adams is close to joining them. But the real keys will be how well RE Phillip Daniels continues to develop, how effectively Dan Saleaumua performs in the three-tackle rotation and, of course, avoiding injuries.
Linebackers	B	Last year, this unit lacked speed and depth. Enter Darrin Smith in free agency and Anthony Simmons and DeShone Myles in the draft. Team them with Chad Brown and Dean Wells and the Seahawks suddenly have the kind of speed Erickson needs to unleash his defensive philosophy.
Secondary	B -	The whole wasn't as good as the parts last season. FS Darryl Williams was voted to his first Pro Bowl, and CBs Willie Williams and Shawn Springs are athletic, fast and can cover. But the Seahawks need either Jay Bellamy or Mark Collins to step in, and step up, at strong safety, and much better play from their third and fourth CBs.
Special teams	C	Only average for now, but a drastic upgrade from last year's F-minus fiasco. There have been changes: rookie Ahman Green joining Steve Broussard on kickoff returns; P Jeff Feagles stepping in for Rick Tuten, and going back to Joey Galloway or perhaps Shawn Springs on punt returns after the Seahawks averaged a league-low 6.7 yards last season. But the most important move was the hiring of Pete Rodriguez to coach these units and the emphasis he is putting on improvement.

Coaching staff	A -	Tony Dungy's steady influence has been the key to the team's rise and will be a big factor in determining the next step. The defense, under coordinator Monte Kiffin, already has arrived. The wildcard is the offense. With all the new weapons, coordinator Mike Shula might finally open things up.
Offensive backfield	B	TB Warrick Dunn and FB Mike Alstott are the league's best 1-2 punch, and they're young and healthy. Dunn is the one player on this team who can change the outcome of a game by himself, but the Bucs can't afford to ask him to carry too much of the load. QB Trent Dilfer is close to being very good, and now he's got the weapons.
Receivers	B -	This group still has a lot to prove. But the arrival of WRs Bert Emanuel and Jacquez Green and the probable improvement of WR Reidel Anthony leaves a surplus of talent. It's doubtful Emanuel will approach the 70+-catch seasons he had in Atlanta because the offense is more conservative, but 45-50 catches would be more than acceptable.
Offensive line	C +	C Tony Mayberry and T Paul Gruber are solid, but they're aging. G Jorge Diaz and T Jason Odom are decent, but they'll never be spectacular. That puts the burden on G Frank Middleton as he moves into a starting role. He has the most potential of all the team's young linemen, but he's going to have to develop it quickly.
Defensive line	A	DT Warren Sapp has the rare ability to control a game from the defensive line. He is at his best in big games and brings out the most in those around him. If DE Regan Upshaw continues to develop this could become the most ferocious pass rushing unit in the league.
Linebackers	A	Derrick Brooks may be the best all-around athlete on the roster; he makes plays all over the field. Hardy Nickerson has been consistently excellent in the middle for years. Alshermond Singleton, Shelton Quarles and Jeff Gooch are competing for the other starting job, but a surplus of talented bodies is something this franchise hasn't seen in years.
Secondary	C +	CB Donnie Abraham is one of the league's best-kept secrets. He can take a receiver completely out of a game. If Anthony Parker, Ronde Barber or Brian Kelly plays half as well as Abraham, pass coverage could become a strength. S John Lynch is strong against the run and the pass and Charles Mincy is a solid veteran.
Special teams	B -	On paper, this group could be outstanding. P Tommy Barnhardt and K Michael Husted have the potential to be among the league's best. If Green can juice up the return game, the offense will have a lot of easy starting points. The coverage units were inconsistent last season, but improvement in that area will be a training camp focus.

Coaching staff	B	Any staff that can achieve an 8-8 mark under the circumstances this club had to play under last year deserves an above-average grade. But coaches were slow to adjust to a poor pass defense and still don't often seem to know what they want to do with Eddie George. Poor play in the division has to cease.
Offensive backfield	A -	The majority of this good grade is attributable to George, but Rodney Thomas is an underrated tailback commodity. Quarterback Steve McNair needs to improve if this team hopes to do anything. Everyone needs to be more productive in the red zone.
Receivers	C -	Frank Wycheck's 63 catches were a highlight. However, the corps had too many dropped passes and ran too many soft routes. The troops didn't beat man coverage when they had to. Some grumbled they didn't have enough chances, but performance wasn't there when they did. Lack of competition in training camp last year may have bred this situation, but that's certainly not a problem this time around with Yancey Thigpen and rookie Kevin Dyson in the mix.
Offensive line	B +	This group did a good job in the power game but allowed 32 sacks. Also, the unit was just 16-of-24 in converting third-and-1 situations, 10-of-17 in third-and-2. But this is a high quality group overall. The line didn't take stupid penalties and is still improving. Veterans Mark Stepnoski, Brad Hopkins and Bruce Matthews are the anchors.
Defensive line	C	There's room for improvement. These guys are stout against the run, but they need to improve their pass rush. Kenny Holmes needs to be more than a role player, while Gary Walker and Henry Ford must be forces in the middle every down instead of occasionally.
Linebackers	B	There are several agile and fast playmakers. However, turnovers were rare and more impact is needed from Lonnie Marts. Barron Wortham isn't a great athlete, but he makes plays. Joe Bowden continues to be a force, but all three looked lost at times last year after being forced to play more conservatively than they wanted.
Secondary	C -	The team finished 27th in pass defense and while injuries were a big part of that, poor play also was a factor. The team showed its desire to improve by using two of its top three picks (Samari Rolle and Dainon Sidney) in the draft for help. The safety tandem of Blaine Bishop and Marcus Robertson augments this unit.
Special teams	C -	The coverage units performed fairly well, but they seemed to surrender the big return at the worst times. Some problems could be averted if Craig Hentrich, who also punts, can boom kickoffs deeper. The return teams need lots of work.

Coaching staff	B -	Norv Turner devises solid game plans and excels at play-calling. His teams, however, have faltered down the stretch the last two seasons. Turner has tried talking his players into performing and now says he will demand that they do. Defensive coordinator Mike Nolan now has a line to go with his back seven. His challenge will be getting consistent performances from his front four.
Offensive backfield	C +	Terry Allen excels as a runner, but he was slowed by injuries last season. He has made comebacks before and looks as if he can do it again. Quarterback Gus Frerotte simply has to play better, smarter and with more confidence in 1998. Someone, either Stephen Davis or rookie Skip Hicks, has to become an effective backup for Allen.
Receivers	C	Michael Westbrook can be the difference between an average group of receivers and an excellent group of receivers. Westbrook can be a dominant player, but injuries and inconsistency have been his millstones. Leslie Shepherd is steady and sometimes outstanding. Jamie Asher is a dependable tight end and rookie Stephen Alexander might one day be an exceptional one.
Offensive line	C	Two new starters, Brad Badger at either tackle or guard, and Cory Raymer at center, highlight a youth movement in a line that was racked by injuries and inconsistency last season. The potential is there to grow and excel, but for now, they're five guys who try hard.
Defensive line	B	Dana Stubblefield and Dan Wilkinson might be "A" material, but they have to prove it first. Kenard Lang is solid at left end, but Rich Owens has things to prove at right end. Marc Boutte and Ryan Kuehl are solid, dependable backups, and Kelvin Kinney might push Owens for the starting job.
Linebackers	B	It might take an act of Congress to get Marvcus Patton off the field; he has not missed a down on defense in three years. Ken Harvey still strikes fear into left tackles and quarterbacks, and Derek Smith should be even better in his second season than he was in his first. The backups, Greg Jones and Twan Russell, are solid and pushing for playing time, as is rookie Shawn Barber.
Secondary	B +	No better pair of cornerbacks exist than Darrell Green and Cris Dishman. Stanley Richard can be an outstanding free safety, but he has yet to be one for an entire season. Jesse Campbell is solid at strong safety. With the exception of cornerback Darryl Pounds, the backups are young and inconsistent.
Special teams	C +	The punting of Matt Turk and return skills of Brian Mitchell are exceptional. Scott Blanton is a solid kicker, but he has to improve his kickoffs. The coverage teams need to improve and the return units need to be more consistent in blocking for Mitchell.

PLAYOFF PLAN

TIEBREAKING PROCEDURES

DIVISION TIES

TWO CLUBS

1. Head-to-head (best won-lost-tied percentage in games between the clubs).
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the division.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
4. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games, if applicable.
5. Best net points in division games.
6. Best net points in all games.
7. Strength of schedule.
8. Best net touchdowns in all games.
9. Coin toss.

THREE OR MORE CLUBS

(Note: If two clubs remain tied after other clubs are eliminated during any step, tie-breaker reverts to step 1 of two-club format.)

1. Head-to-head (best won-lost-tied percentage in games among the clubs).
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the division.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
4. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games.
5. Best net points in division games.
6. Best net points in all games.
7. Strength of schedule.
8. Best net touchdowns in all games.
9. Coin toss.

WILD-CARD TIES

If necessary to break ties to determine the three wild-card clubs from each conference, the following steps will be taken:

1. If all the tied clubs are from the same division, apply division tie-breaker.
2. If the tied clubs are from different divisions, apply the steps listed below.
3. When the first wild-card team has been identified, the procedure is repeated to name the second wild card (i.e., eliminate all but the highest-ranked club in each division prior to proceeding to step 2), and repeated a third time, if necessary, to identify the third wild card. In situations where three or more teams from the same division are involved in the procedure, the original seeding of the teams remains the same for subsequent applications of the tie-breaker if the top-ranked team in that division qualifies for a wild-card berth.

TWO CLUBS

1. Head-to-head, if applicable.
2. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games, minimum of four.
4. Best average net points in conference games.
5. Best net points in all games.
6. Strength of schedule.
7. Best net touchdowns in all games.
8. Coin toss.

THREE OR MORE CLUBS

(Note: If two clubs remain tied after other clubs are eliminated, tie-breaker reverts to step 1 of two-club format.)

1. Apply division tie-breaker to eliminate all but highest-ranked club in each division prior to proceeding to step 1. The original seeding within a division upon application of the division tie-breaker remains the same for all subsequent applications of the procedure that are necessary to identify the three wild-card participants.
2. Head-to-head sweep (applicable only if one club has defeated each of the others or one club has lost to each of the others).
3. Best won-lost-tied percentage in games played within the conference.
4. Best won-lost-tied percentage in common games, minimum of four.
5. Best average net points in conference games.
6. Best net points in all games.
7. Strength of schedule.
8. Best net touchdowns in all games.
9. Coin toss.

YEAR IN REVIEW

THE TOP STORIES OF THE PAST YEAR

By KEN SINS

NFL bean counters were the bearers of glad tidings in 1997 as their wealthy bosses got a whole lot richer. The owners' bottom line swelled, and so did the players'. Franchise worth enjoyed another lurch toward the moon. And every fan survey continued to point to pro football as being the king of the Big Four spectator sports.

Television dollars continue to accumulate at a rate that reminds historians of post-World War I inflation. Each of the league's 30 teams will get an equal share of at least $550 million per season under a new record TV contract. Meanwhile, attendance in 1997 was the second-highest in league history at more than 19 million, and labor peace has been assured with an extension of the collective bargaining agreement between owners and players through the 2005 season.

In a move that some might consider to be bad for business, the owners failed to approve a watered-down instant replay proposal. Many observers declared that after a series of aborted attempts at reinstituting the concept, replay was dead.

On the field, tradition took a beating when the heavily favored defending champion Green Bay Packers were upset by the Denver Broncos, 31-24, in the Super Bowl, ending 13 years of NFC domination.

Meanwhile, the balance of power in the once-mighty NFC East shifted from the Dallas Cowboys to the New York Giants. NFL deep thinkers know it's better for business if both teams are strong. They also know that, eventually, new teams must be installed in major markets Los Angeles and Houston.

RECORD TV DEAL

The new contract with the league's TV partners will provide the NFL with an astonishing sum of money—at least $17.6 billion over the next eight seasons, doubling the annual amount of the previous deal. And after the fifth year, the league has the option to throw the contracts back open for bidding, which will garner even more money.

Still, some industry analysts feel the price tag of nearly $18 million might turn out to be a bargain; even with TV ratings down a little, the prestige of pro football means a lot in the television business.

CBS spent its way back into pro football by doling out $4 billion to carry AFC games. Fox retained the NFC package for $4.5 billion. And the Disney Corp., representing ABC and ESPN, forked over $9.2 billion for the rights to show Sunday night and Monday night games for the next eight years.

NBC, which had been the AFC's flagship network, was left out of the picture after finding the bidding too rich for its blood. Super Bowl XXXII marked the final broadcast for a network that had been televising pro football since the days of the AFL.

Was the mind-boggling outlay of funds worth it? CBS thought so, while Turner Network Television owner Ted Turner didn't; he dropped out of the running. CBS, which lost the NFC four years earlier, was determined to regain a piece of the pie even if it had to overpay to do so.

"We will not lose money on this deal," said Sean McManus, president of CBS Sports. "This has tremendous value for our television stations and tremendous value to our affiliates and the network. We have the No. 1 sport in America, which makes us a year-round leader in television."

The escalation of TV money began in earnest four years ago when Fox, at the behest of Cowboys owner Jerry Jones, entered the bidding and shocked the industry with its then-outrageous offer of $2.5 billion for four years' worth of NFC games. At the time, the sanity of Fox execs was seriously questioned, but the purchase gave the then-fledgling network credibility with sponsors and viewers.

Not only is the new deal good for the owners and the league, but the players, who long have contended that they're underpaid compared with their brethren in pro basketball and baseball, also got themselves a nice raise.

Two-thirds of TV revenue goes to the players, which means a total of about $12 billion over eight years. With each of the 30 teams employing about 60 players on their active rosters, injured reserve and practice squad, that means approximately 1,800 players will divide $1.5 billion per year. And that means an average annual salary of $833,000, although superstars obviously will get a lot more than special teams players and backups.

REPLAY REBUFFED AGAIN

With all that TV money pouring in, it was somewhat surprising that league owners again turned down another proposal for instant replay.

The concept continues to be favored by a majority of fans, players, coaches and, yes, owners. But a confirmed group of no voters dug in their heels, and the latest turndown could mean the end of replay forever.

"I think this is it," said Green Bay Packers general manager Ron Wolf, a leading proponent. "I think it's reared its head for the last time. This was as simplistic a form as you could present, and it didn't make it."

For passage of the latest proposal, 23 yes votes were needed. But those in favor could muster only 21 at the winter meetings in Orlando.

The plan under consideration was a "challenge timeout" scheme in which a timeout would have been taken away from a team that challenged a call and was wrong. If a team had three unsuccessful challenges in a half, it would be out of timeouts and unable to question an obviously incorrect call.

In Orlando, the league also extended the current contract with the Players Association through 2005. After assuring labor peace, the owners put a behavior clause into the contract stipulating that any employee of the league can be suspended for "any crime involving the use or threat of physical violence to a person or persons, the use of a deadly weapon in the commission of a crime, involvement in so-called hate crimes or crimes of domestic violence or the destruction of property."

Considering the number of incidents involving players in recent years, that clause figures to come into play very soon.

AFC LIVES

The AFC had grown tired of playing little brother to the big boys of the NFC, and the Broncos finally did something about it. Denver's victory over Green Bay in Super Bowl XXXII ended the NFC's 13-year dominance of the event.

For the 11 1/2-point underdog Broncos, there was redemption on a number of levels. Not only did they allow the AFC to regain bragging rights, the Broncos won their first Super Bowl in five tries.

The victory also was satisfying for John Elway, who had been the losing quarterback in Denver's three previous Super Bowls. Elway did not have a spectacular game, but he was good enough and got help from running back Terrell Davis, who finished with 157 yards on the ground and a Super Bowl record three rushing touchdowns en route to capturing MVP honors.

Another franchise might have given up on the 37-year-old Elway, but the Broncos, losers of four Super Bowls since 1978, stuck with their veteran leader.

"I have wiped the slate clean," he said afterwards.

The Broncos used a stout offensive line and a revitalized ground attack to become only the second wild card team to win the Super Bowl. (The 1980 Oakland Raiders were the first.) Denver's offensive line—Gary Zimmerman, Mark Schlereth, Tom Nalen, Brian Habib and Tony Jones—certainly deserved a share of Davis' MVP award. The veteran group dominated Green Bay's front seven as nobody thought it could. Gilbert Brown, the Packers' 345-pound defensive tackle, was neutralized throughout the game as the Broncos' NFC-style ground game produced 179 net yards.

Denver managed only 123 yards through the air, with Elway going 12-for-22 with one interception and zero touchdowns. But Elway scored one touchdown, made few mistakes and the Broncos controlled the clock with the run.

Davis was an especially poignant story for a Super Bowl played in San Diego. He had starred at San Diego's Lincoln High School and had his jersey retired by the school earlier in the week. He became the first player to win Super Bowl MVP accolades in the city in which he was born.

"I'm numb," Davis said. "It's going to take a while for this to set in."

For a while in the first half, Davis winning MVP honors seemed like a long shot. He suffered symptoms of a migraine in the first half, which clouded his vision. But Davis was not going to miss the ultimate second half of his career, and his one-yard touchdown run with 1:45 to play broke a tie and gave the Broncos their long-awaited victory.

In the end, however, it was Elway's day.

"To finally come out and show the NFC and everyone, it's unbelievable," Elway said.

COWBOYS' DYNASTY CRUMBLES

The Dallas Cowboys, long the NFL's marquee franchise, started the '97 season with a bunker mentality. A series of drug, sex and alcohol escapades had turned the franchise into fodder for talk show hosts and comics.

Step one to restore the team's image came in the offseason, when owner Jerry Jones hired former Dallas running back Calvin Hill and his wife, Janet, to help modify player behavior. Former Cowboys fullback Robert Newhouse also was hired to handle the day-to-day operation of a program for player assistance and development.

Under tighter scrutiny, the players managed to avoid any scandals in 1997, although coach Barry Switzer was caught at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport with a gun in his luggage. Switzer said he had forgotten that the firearm was with him, but Jones socked Switzer with a $50,000 fine.

It was the start of what turned out to be a nightmarish season for Switzer. The Cowboys stumbled to a 6-10 record, their worst finish since they were a league-worst 1-15 in 1989. Amid charges that the players had lost all respect for Switzer, Jones allowed his longtime friend to resign at the end of the season.

Following an exhaustive 34-day search for a replacement, Jones hired Pittsburgh Steelers offensive coordinator Chan Gailey as the fourth head coach in the franchise's 37-year history.

Jones reportedly offered the job to former UCLA coach Terry Donahue, but Donahue wanted too much control. Jones also interviewed former 49ers coach George Seifert and Packers offensive coordinator Sherman Lewis. But Gailey emerged late and landed the job with the help of glowing recommendations from highly regarded NFL types such as Atlanta coach Dan Reeves, a former Dallas player and assistant.

Gailey didn't have to be reminded that he was stepping into a pressure situation. The other three coaches in franchise history—Tom Landry, Jimmy Johnson and Switzer—have won Super Bowls. Gailey, 46, accepted the challenge despite the fact Jones serves as his own general manager and may be the most hands-on owner in the league.

Jones settled on Gailey in large part because the Cowboys offense was badly in need of repair. Dallas finished 20th in the league in total offense in 1997, and the once-explosive trio of quarterback Troy Aikman, running back Emmitt Smith and wide receiver Michael Irvin showed signs of slippage. The Dallas offensive line, once considered the best in the league, had deteriorated due to age and injuries.

"I wanted someone who was highly regarded as an innovative and creative mind on the offensive side of the ball," Jones said. "I wanted a proven play-caller who had done it in big games."

RISE OF THE GIANTS

Talk to a couple of NFL executives at happy hour and they'll usually admit, at least off the record, that having at least one strong franchise in New York is good for business. Having a competitive team in the nation's largest market drives interest in the entire league and boosts TV ratings.

The Giants were back in the limelight in 1997, ending the Cowboys' run of five consecutive division titles behind coach Jim Fassel, who as a rookie drove the Giants from worst to first in the NFC East and was voted NFL Coach of the Year.

The 48-year-old Fassel replaced Dan Reeves, who had feuded with Giants management over control of personnel decisions. Fassel let then–GM George Young handle the front office decisions; he stuck to coaching, guiding his young team to a 10-5-1 record and its first NFC East crown since 1990.

BROWNS RETURN

NFL owners voted unanimously at their winter meetings to grant an expansion franchise to Cleveland. It will be known, quite properly, as the Browns.

The league had announced in February 1996 that Cleveland would have a team in 1999 to replace the departing Browns, who moved to Baltimore and became the Ravens. But at that time the league said the new Cleveland team could be either an expansion team or a franchise moving from another city.

When owner Art Modell moved the Browns to Baltimore, Cleveland was up in arms. The NFL headed off what could have been a series of legal skirmishes with Cleveland by promising the city it would have a new team in place by the end of the century.

Possible relocating franchises like Indianapolis and Minnesota firmed up their situations, however, leaving Cleveland with only the expansion option. That was fine with NFL owners, who'll collect a hefty expansion fee from the new team.

The new Browns will be the league's 31st team and will play in the AFC Central, meaning two games each season against the Ravens.

League officials appointed Joe Mack as the team's personnel director, and ownership groups were being screened. A new stadium is under construction.

"I'm like most Clevelanders ... gratified," said Cleveland mayor Michael R. White. "Our goal was to bring a football team back to Cleveland and build them the best home in the world to play in. We're going to do that."

NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue said the league also was interested in franchises for Los Angeles and Houston, other cities that have lost teams in the last five years.

SAVING A LION

Detroit Lions linebacker Reggie Brown suffered the most serious injury of the season. A second-year player from Texas A&M, Brown sustained a severe neck injury during what appeared to be a routine pileup at the Pontiac Silverdome in a December 21 game against the New York Jets.

Quick work by longtime Lions trainer Kent Falb and team doctor Terry Lock not only saved Brown's life, but led to what medical experts said was a miraculous recovery. Brown, 23, will never play football or any other contact sport again, but after some initial paralysis he was walking about a week later.

ALLEN RETIRES

Future Hall of Fame running back Marcus Allen retired from the Kansas City Chiefs to take a job as an analyst for CBS Sports. Allen ended his 16-year career as the NFL's all-time leader in rushing touchdowns with 123 and is sixth on the career rushing list with 12,243 yards. He played in more games (222) than any other running back in NFL history.

Allen, who will be eligible for the Hall of Fame in 2003, said he will enter the Canton shrine as a member of the Chiefs and not the Oakland/Los Angeles Raiders, even though his best seasons came in the employment of the Raiders from 1982-92.

JAIL TIME FOR MORRIS

Baltimore Ravens running back Byron "Bam" Morris was sentenced to 90 days in a Texas jail for probation violations, ending a two-year tailspin that started with a marijuana bust in March 1996.

Morris, who spent his 26th birthday in prison, still has visions of resuming his career after being released by the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Ravens.

NITSCHKE DIES

Hall of Fame linebacker Ray Nitschke, whose physical defense was the backbone of the Green Bay Packers' championship teams of the '60s, died of a heart attack March 8 at his winter home in Florida. He was 61.

Nitschke played for the Packers from 1958-72, and his fierce presence was a key factor in the five titles won by Green Bay during his tenure, including the first two Super Bowls. He was a member of the NFL's 75th anniversary all-time team.

Nitschke's death was the second in less than a month involving a former member of the Packers' championship teams of the '60s. Former defensive end Lionel Aldridge was found dead of natural causes in his suburban Milwaukee apartment February 12. He was 56.

HALL OF FAME HAILS FIVE

The day before the Super Bowl was special for five former NFL stars. That's when the Pro Football Hall of Fame announced the election of its newest members, who will be inducted July 26 in Canton, Ohio.

Heading the group were middle linebacker Mike Singletary, a 10-time Pro Bowl selection in his 12 seasons with the Chicago Bears, and offensive tackle Anthony Munoz, a 13-year star with the Cincinnati Bengals. Both were chosen in their first year of eligibility.

Singletary, who at 6-1 was considered by some scouts to be too short to excel at his position, was the leader of the 1985 Bears defense that swept the team to its only Super Bowl title.

Also selected were former Miami Dolphins center Dwight Stephenson, and defensive back Paul Krause, whose 16-year career with the Minnesota Vikings and Washington Redskins ended with 81 interceptions, most in league history. Stephenson was considered one of the league's top centers before his eight-year career was ended by a knee injury in 1987.

Wide receiver Tommy McDonald, who played for five teams in the 1950s and '60s, was selected by the Seniors Committee. McDonald, who was first eligible for the Hall 24 years ago, had all but abandoned hope of ever joining the shrine despite his 495 career receptions.

COACHING CAROUSEL

The removal of Barry Switzer and installation of Chan Gailey in Dallas was the final move in a relatively light year of coaching changes.

The Buffalo Bills said farewell to venerable Marv Levy, the only man to take a team to four straight Super Bowls. Levy, who coached for five years in the CFL before becoming coach of the Kansas City Chiefs in 1978, retired after 17 NFL seasons and 154 victories, including 11 in the playoffs. He was replaced by Bills defensive coordinator Wade Phillips.

Ousted from the helm of the Indianapolis Colts was Lindy Infante, who was replaced by former Saints coach Jim Mora. And in Oakland, owner Al Davis brought in Jon Gruden to take the place of the fired Joe Bugel. Gruden, 34, had been offensive coordinator of the Philadelphia Eagles the previous three years.

HOT AND COLD

Two striking themes ran concurrently through the 1997 regular season: It was a great year for running backs, and a not-so-hot year for quarterbacks.

Nowhere was it better than in Detroit, where Barry Sanders became the third player to break the 2,000-yard rushing barrier, and first since Eric Dickerson in 1984. All told 16 running backs, eight in each conference, rushed for at least 1,000 yards.

As for the quarterbacks ... San Diego's Stan Humphries suffered a third concussion in 11 months ... San Francisco's Steve Young had to reconsider his career after suffering a third concussion in a year ... Atlanta's Chris Chandler endured two concussions but continued to play ... There were 20 starting quarterback changes during the 1997 season as a result of injury, ranging from a broken jaw (Carolina's Kerry Collins) to a broken collarbone (Kansas City's Elvis Grbac) to a broken hip (Washington's Gus Frerotte).

TRIED RICE

Finally, there was 49ers receiver Jerry Rice's decision to return to action for a Monday night game against Denver in Week 16, just 3 1/2 months after undergoing major knee surgery after being injured in the season opener. Rice fractured his kneecap (same knee) making a catch in the end zone for San Francisco's first touchdown. The score ignited his teammates and propelled the 49ers to a 34-17 victory, clinching them home-field advantage for the NFC playoffs.

Pity, but the 49ers could have used Rice for the one game that really counted—the NFC championship game against Green Bay, which they lost 23-10. They didn't need him to get home-field advantage.

HIGHLIGHTS

Hero of the week: Neil O'Donnell, a bust with the Jets the year before, threw a career-high five touchdown passes as New York rolled over Seattle, 41-3. He was 18-of-25 for 270 yards and no interceptions. O'Donnell's five touchdown passes were a career high and the most ever yielded by the Seahawks.

Goat of the week: Cardinals fullback Larry Centers, who was stripped of the ball at the Bengals' 37 with 1:10 left in the game as he stretched to get a couple of yards on third down with the Cardinals leading. After Centers fumbled away a chance to run down the clock, Jeff Blake led Cincinnati down the field with sideline completions, ending the drive with a 6-yard touchdown pass to Carl Pickens with 38 seconds left for a 24-21 victory.

Sub of the week: Green Bay tight end Jeff Thomason, who entered after starter Mark Chmura tore his posterior cruciate ligament in the second quarter, caught five passes for 58 yards and one touchdown in the Packers' 38-24 win over Chicago.

Comeback of the week: Through three quarters, Arizona quarterback Kent Graham was picking apart the Bengals' zone-blitz defense, setting up three touchdown runs. It looked as if the Cardinals were on their way to an easy victory when Larry Centers' 1-yard dive put them ahead 21-3 five minutes into the third quarter. Although Cincinnati answered with two Ki-Jana Carter TD runs in the fourth quarter, the Bengals still trailed, 21-16, with 2:14 left. About a minute later, linebacker Gerald Dixon punched the ball loose from Centers' grasp, giving Cincinnati one more chance to score. Quarterback Jeff Blake did not waste the opportunity, driving his team down the field and firing a dramatic game-winning touchdown pass to Carl Pickens in the final minute.

Blowout of the week: The Jets, 1-15 in 1996, served notice they no longer would be a doormat under new coach Bill Parcells. Led by Neil O'Donnell's five TD passes, they trounced Seattle, 41-3, in the Kingdome. The Jets led 27-3 at halftime and did not punt until the fourth quarter.

Nail-biter of the week: Led by tailback Eddie George's 216 yards rushing, the Oilers were leading Oakland late in the fourth quarter. But the Raiders mounted a scoring drive with less than a minute in regulation, and receiver Tim Brown capped the drive with a touchdown catch to send the game into overtime tied at 21. The Oilers regrouped in OT, however, winning on Al Del Greco's 33-yard field goal 3:08 into the extra period.

Hit of the week: When 49ers receiver Jerry Rice took the handoff on an end-around, Tampa Bay defensive tackle Warren Sapp was waiting for him to turn the corner. Rice attempted to avert the pursuing defender, but Sapp grabbed him by the facemask and pulled him to the ground. Rice suffered torn anterior cruciate and medial collateral ligaments, as well as damage to the posterior capsule in his left knee. The injury caused Rice to miss most of the rest of the season.

Oddity of the week: Randall Cunningham returned to the NFL after a one-year absence but was kicking, not throwing, the football with his new team, the Vikings. He handled the team's punting duties after Mitch Berger was sidelined with a hip injury. Cunningham was a two-time All-American punter at UNLV and had punted a dozen times in his 12-year NFL career before 1997. He averaged 42.5 yards on four kicks against Buffalo.

Top rusher: Eddie George's 216-yard effort against the Raiders was the second-highest total on opening day in NFL history. O.J. Simpson had 250 yards for Buffalo at New England in 1973.

Top passer: Drew Bledsoe was 26-of-39 for 340 yards and four touchdowns in directing New England to a 41-7 rout of the Chargers.

Top receiver: Tim Brown caught eight passes for 158 yards and three touchdowns in the Raiders' loss at Tennessee.

Notes: Drew Bledsoe tied Babe Parilli's 30-year-old Patriots team record with four TD passes in a half. . . .

Dallas quarterback Troy Aikman threw four TD passes in a game for the third time in his career in the Cowboys' 37-7 win at Pittsburgh. The loss was the Steelers' worst since a club-record 51-0 setback to Cleveland in the 1989 season opener. . . . The Panthers' 24-10 loss to Washington was Carolina's first defeat in the 10-game history of Ericsson Stadium. . . . New England's Dave Meggett returned six punts to set an NFL record with 305 returns in his career. Only he and the Raiders' Tim Brown (301) have returned 300 punts in NFL history. . . . The Chargers haven't beaten the Patriots since 1970. They are 0-9 since. . . . Only 30,171 fans turned out to see the Oilers play their inaugural game in Tennessee. One reason for the apathy was that fans in Memphis had lobbied for an NFL team for years, only to be rejected. Another was that Memphis and Nashville are rival cities, unwilling to support the others' teams. The Oilers are calling Memphis home for two years until a new stadium opens in Nashville. As evidenced by a less-than-half-filled Liberty Bowl, the temporary nature of the arrangement did not sit too well with Memphis fans.

Quote of the week: Lions coach Bobby Ross, after Detroit's come-from-behind, 28-17 victory over the Falcons: "They hung in there, and that is what we want to do all year long. Like a chicken on a June bug, we are just going to have to stay after them all the time."

Hero of the week: For the second consecutive week, Patriots quarterback Drew Bledsoe threw four touchdown passes in a blowout victory, this time 31-6 over the Colts. Bledsoe was 15-of-25 for 267 yards and completed five passes that covered at least 21 yards.

Goat of the week: With the Dolphins driving into Oilers territory in a 13-13 overtime game, Miami wide receiver Fred Barnett caught a pass at the Oilers' 24. After making the tackle, Tennessee cornerback Tomur Barnes shoved Barnett in the head and was hit with a 12-yard penalty, moving the ball to the 12. Miami's Olindo Mare kicked a 29-yard field goal on the next play as the Dolphins won, 16-13.

Sub of the week: Third-string quarterback Steve Matthews, making his first NFL start because of injuries to Mark Brunell and Rob Johnson, was 23-of-35 for 252 yards as the Jaguars routed the Giants, 40-13. Matthews, who never got into a game in three seasons with the Chiefs, had joined the Jaguars three weeks earlier and had a working knowledge of about half the Jacksonville playbook.

Comeback of the week: When Arizona trailed Dallas, 22-7, in the third quarter, it must have been a familiar feeling—the Cardinals had not beaten the Cowboys since 1990. But quarterback Kent Graham's 1-yard touchdown pass to Frank Sanders at the end of the third quarter cut the deficit to 22-14. Graham then engineered an eight-play, 70-yard drive at the end of the fourth quarter, hitting Pat Carter for a touchdown with 1:06 left and throwing to Rob Moore for the two-point conversion, sending the game into overtime. Graham fumbled early in the extra period, but the Cowboys fumbled it back and Graham was able to redeem himself. He completed long passes to Sanders and Larry Centers to set up Kevin Butler's game-winning 20-yard field goal.

Blowout of the week: After trailing, 14-13, at halftime, the Broncos scored 22 consecutive points to beat the Seahawks, 35-14. Keyed by a 32-yard Darrien Gordon interception return for a touchdown at the end of the third quarter, Denver went on to force Seattle to give up the ball on downs twice in the fourth quarter.

Nail-biter of the week: Trailing 9-3 on a wet day in Philadelphia, Ty Detmer and the Eagles put together a 10-minute scoring drive in the fourth quarter to stun the Packers, 10-9. The game-winning points came on a 2-yard touchdown pass from Detmer to Freddie Solomon with 1:56 left. The Packers returned the ensuing kickoff to midfield and drove to the Eagles' 11 with 11 seconds left, but rookie kicker Ryan Longwell pushed a 28-yard field-goal attempt wide right.

Hit of the week: By Eagles linebacker James Willis, who stopped Dorsey Levens short of the first-down marker on third-and-1 at the 11, forcing the Packers into an ill-fated field-goal attempt with 11 seconds left.

Oddity of the week: Barry Sanders had terrorized Tampa Bay defenses by averaging 117.5 rushing yards in his first 15 career games against the Bucs. But in the 16th, Sanders was held to 20 yards on 10 carries as the Bucs beat the Lions, 24-17.

Top rusher: Jerome Bettis ran for 134 yards and a touchdown in leading Pittsburgh to a 14-13 victory over Washington.

Top passer: Detroit's Scott Mitchell was 29-of-50 passes for 331 yards in the Lions' loss to the Buccaneers. Touchdown passes of 73 and 66 yards accounted for 139 of the yardage total.

Top receiver: Andre Rison caught eight passes for 162 yards and one touchdown in Kansas City's 28-27 win over Oakland.

Notes: Andre Rison's touchdown against the Raiders was a game-winner with three seconds left. It gave him at least one TD reception with six teams, an NFL record. . . . Eagles kicker Chris Boniol's streak of successful field goals ended at 28 when he missed a 48-yarder against the Packers. The NFL record is 31 in a row, set by Minnesota's Fuad Reveiz in 1994-95. . . . With 14 yards against Seattle, Broncos quarterback John Elway moved into fourth place on the NFL's career quarterback rushing list with 3,133 yards. Randall Cunningham tops that list with 4,482 yards. . . . The Jaguars were 2-0 despite playing quarterbacks—Rob Johnson and Steve Matthews—who were making their first NFL starts. . . . Troy Aikman broke Roger Staubach's record of 115 starts by a Dallas quarterback. . . . The Redskins had only six possessions in their 14-13 loss to the Steelers . . . Drew Bledsoe's eight TD passes in the first two weeks were caught by eight receivers. He also did not throw an interception in his first 64 attempts. . . . The Broncos' Terrell Davis has 12 career 100-yard rushing games, three against the Seahawks. . . . Barry Sanders had only 53 rushing yards in Detroit's first two games of 1997. He entered the season on the heels of three consecutive 1,500-yard seasons.

Quote of the week: Packers coach Mike Holmgren, after his team lost for the first time in nine games: "It has been a long time since we lost a ballgame. Now I think we can eliminate the 19-0 talk. Every week it's going to be a battle. Maybe it will be a blessing for us."

Hero of the week: San Francisco cornerback Rod Woodson had three interceptions (returning them for a total of 81 yards), one forced fumble and recovered another in the 49ers' 33-7 victory over the Saints. Woodson, in his 11th NFL season, had the first four-takeaway performance of his career before leaving in the third period because of a pulled calf muscle. It also was the first three-interception game of his career.

Goat of the week: Eagles punter/holder Tom Hutton cost his team a probable victory over the Cowboys at Texas Stadium. With Dallas leading, 21-20, the Eagles lined up for a potential game-winning 22-yard field goal on the final play of regulation. Hutton, holding for kicker Chris Boniol, fumbled the snap, then tried to run with it. He was tackled short of the goal line by Deion Sanders as time expired.

Sub of the week: New England tight end Lovett Purnell caught only two passes for 25 yards in the Patriots' 27-24 overtime victory against the Jets, but one of those catches resulted in a late fourth-quarter touchdown. Quarterback Drew Bledsoe's 10-yard touchdown pass to Purnell with 12:53 left gave the Patriots a 24-17 lead. Purnell was subbing for the temporarily injured Ben Coates, who had suffered bruised ribs earlier in the game.

Comeback of the week: The Cowboys rallied from a 17-3 second-quarter deficit to beat the Eagles, 21-20. With 51 seconds left in regulation, Dallas quarterback Troy Aikman threw a 14-yard touchdown pass to receiver Anthony Miller, who leaped high in the end zone to make the grab.

Blowout of the week: Indianapolis scored first, on a 46-yard field goal by Cary Blanchard, but Seattle scored the next 31 points en route to a 31-3 victory. Seahawks quarterback Warren Moon, at 40 the oldest player in the NFL, passed for 270 yards and one touchdown. He also scored his first rushing TD in four years.

Nail-biter of the week: Patriots kicker Adam Vinatieri ruined Jets coach Bill Parcells' return to New England by kicking a 34-yard field goal in overtime to give the Pats a 27-24 victory. New York had a chance to win the game in the fourth quarter, but rookie John Hall's 29-yard field goal attempt was blocked by Mike Jones with less than a minute left in regulation.

Hit of the week: Late in the fourth quarter of the Cowboys' victory over Philadelphia, Deion Sanders was running upfield on a punt return. When he quickly changed his direction to avoid being tackled, Philadelphia's Jason Dunn saw his chance to make a play. But Dallas' Billy Davis delivered a vicious hit that knocked Dunn off his feet. Dunn never saw Davis coming and landed several feet from the initial contact.

Oddity of the week: Raiders quarterback Jeff George was hoping for revenge when he took the field at the Georgia Dome in Atlanta for a game against his former team. George, who spent the previous three seasons with the Falcons, clearly was bitter toward the team and its fans. So after downing the ball to run out the clock in Oakland's 36-31 victory, George took a victory lap around the field, pumping his arms and waving the ball as fans booed, shouted insults and pelted him with empty cups.

Top rusher: Curtis Martin rushed 40 times for 199 yards and one touchdown in New England's victory against the Jets.

Top passer: Minnesota's Brad Johnson was 29-of-44 for 334 yards and one touchdown in the Vikings' 28-14 loss to Tampa Bay.

Top receiver: Jake Reed caught six of Brad Johnson's passes for 131 yards in the Vikings' loss.

Notes: The inaugural game at Washington's Jack Kent Cooke Stadium was somewhat less successful than anticipated. Although the Redskins won the game (beating Arizona, 19-13, in overtime), the announced attendance of 78,270 was 1,846 short of capacity. The team claimed a sellout because all general tickets were sold, but many of the expensive club seats had not been sold and sat empty. . . . Chicago's 32-7 loss to the Lions dropped the Bears to 0-3 for the first time since 1969. . . . Until Week 3,

Miami had never lost to Green Bay (8-0). The Packers have now beaten every team in the NFL. . . . Darrien Gordon's 94-yard punt-return touchdown against St. Louis was the first by a Bronco in 10 years, the longest in team history and the longest ever against the Rams. . . . Detroit's Barry Sanders, held to a total of 53 yards in the season's first two games, rushed for 161 and averaged 8.5 yards per carry against the Bears . . . . The Ravens squeaked by the Giants, 24-23, for their first road victory since moving to Baltimore in 1996. . . . Dating to the third quarter of their final game of 1996, the Colts had gone 13 periods (194 minutes, 17 seconds of playing time) in the regular season without scoring an offensive touchdown. . . . John Carney supplanted Rolf Benirschke as the Chargers' leading career scorer.

Quote of the week: San Francisco quarterback Steve Young, on returning from a concussion that kept him on the sidelines the previous week: "It's just nice to get back on the horse and ride a little bit."

Hero of the week: Denver's Terrell Davis ran for a career-high 215 yards on 27 carries and scored one touchdown in the Broncos' 38-20 victory over Cincinnati.

Goat of the week: Oakland's Cole Ford missed four field goals, including one that was returned for the game-winning touchdown, and botched an extra point in the Raiders' 23-22 loss to the Jets. In fairness to Ford, the snaps were poor or mishandled on three of the kicks.

Sub of the week: Seattle had only 2 yards rushing at halftime, so coach Dennis Erickson inserted Steve Broussard, an eight-year veteran whose primary job had been kickoff returns. Broussard ran for 72 yards in the second half as a replacement for Chris Warren and Lamar Smith, and his 1-yard leap into the end zone with 1:22 left gave the Seahawks their winning points in a 26-22 victory over the Chargers.

Comeback of the week: In many cases, a 26-point lead would be reason to send many of the first-stringers to the bench for a well-deserved rest. But the Colts kept their starters in the game—and still lost. Buffalo rallied from a 26-0 deficit to win, 37-35, in the second-biggest regular-season comeback victory in NFL history. Rookie Antowain Smith's 54-yard TD run with 1:14 left sealed the win.

Blowout of the week: The Bears were 0-4 for the first time in 28 years after a 31-3 defeat at New England. The Patriots gained 402 yards and held Chicago to 199. The final blow came in the fourth quarter, when Curtis Martin's 70-yard touchdown run gave New England a 24-3 lead.

Nail-biter of the week: For the second consecutive Monday night, a failed field-goal attempt on the last play of the game provided a fantastic finish. This time, the Steelers' Norm Johnson lined up for a 40-yard attempt with his team trailing, 23-21. The snap from veteran center Jim Sweeney was low, and Jacksonville's Clyde Simmons blocked the kick. Chris Hudson picked up the loose ball and returned it 58 yards for a touchdown, giving the Jaguars a 30-21 victory.

Hit of the week: Green Bay had blown most of a 31-7 halftime lead as Minnesota quarterback Brad Johnson led four successive scoring drives to close the gap, at one point hitting 13 passes in a row. But Johnson misfired three consecutive times from midfield after the two-minute warning, leaving the Vikings with one last chance. On fourth-and-10 from Minnesota's 46, Reggie White blew past right tackle Korey Stringer and hit Johnson's arm just as he released, which redirected the pass and preserved the Packers' 38-32 victory.

Oddity of the week: Fake field goals and fake punts are trick plays that fans can expect to see every once in a while. But fake onside kicks are even more of a rarity. The Vikings, however, decided to fake an onside kick on each of their six kickoffs against Green Bay. The unorthodox strategy managed to disrupt the Packers' return unit, but Green Bay won anyway.

Top rusher: Terrell Davis' 215-yard effort against the Bengals eclipsed his team record of 194, set a season earlier against Baltimore.

Top passer: Jeff George was 26-of-38 for 374 yards and three touchdowns in the Raiders' 23-22 loss to the Jets.

Top receiver: Oakland's Tim Brown caught 10 passes for 153 yards and scored one touchdown in the losing effort.

Notes: The Jets avoided tying the league record for consecutive home losses (13, set by Dallas in 1988-89) thanks to great special teams play. Corwin Brown blocked a field goal, and Ray Mickens returned it 72 yards for the winning touchdown. . . . Buffalo's Thurman Thomas had 66 total yards against the Colts to increase his career total to 14,865, moving him past Jim Brown into sixth place on the NFL's career list. . . . The Patriots improved their record to 3-0 against the Bears since being crushed, 46-10, in Super Bowl XX. . . . In the Dolphins-Bucs game, Trent Dilfer completed 13 of his first 15 passes; Dan Marino completed one of his first nine. . . . Green Bay's Brett Favre threw his 153rd touchdown pass, passing Hall of Famer Bart

Starr to become the Packers' career leader. . . . The Saints converted 10 of 14 third downs in their 35-17 upset of Detroit. . . . Ki-Jana Carter gained 104 yards against Denver, becoming the first Bengal to run for 100 yards since Harold Green on December 20, 1992 (68 games earlier). . . . Only 17,737 people showed up at the 62,320-seat Liberty Bowl in Memphis to watch the Oilers lose, 36-10, to the Ravens. . . . Terrell Davis' big day against Cincinnati put him over the 3,000-yard mark for career rushing yardage. The third-year running back reached the milestone in 34 games.

Quote of the week: Green Bay safety Leroy Butler, expressing how he felt about the rival Vikings after the Packers beat them, 38-32: "This is a team we really don't like, and we really wanted to hammer them. Kill a fly with an ax."

Hero of the week: Jets running back Adrian Murrell rushed 40 times for 156 yards and a touchdown in New York's 31-14 victory over the Bengals. The win improved the Jets' record to 3-2 for the first time in nine years. Murrell's 40 attempts tied a Jets record set by Johnny Hector in 1986.

Goat of the week: After a punt by the Vikings' Mitch Berger, the Eagles' Bobby Seay tried to catch the ball on the bounce. But it slipped out of his hands, and Minnesota safety Greg Briggs recovered. Two plays later, Robert Smith scored on a 14-yard run to give the Vikings an insurmountable 21-13 lead en route to a 28-19 victory.

Sub of the week: Beleaguered tailback Tyrone Wheatley, a first-round draft bust, replaced the injured Tiki Barber just as his Giants were about to blow another late fourth-quarter lead. New York took over on its 3 with 3:38 left, but on first down Wheatley rushed for 15 yards to get his team out of trouble. On third-and-4 at the 24, he gained 13 yards. On second-and-7 from the 40, Wheatley rushed for 9 yards. He ended the game with 11 carries for 60 yards and the Giants held on for a 14-9 win.

Comeback of the week: With less than five minutes remaining, the Buccaneers trailed the Cardinals, 18-12, and faced a fourth-and-6 at Arizona's 31. A swirling wind swept away any thoughts of a field goal, so quarterback Trent Dilfer hit wide receiver Karl Williams at the 25, and Williams ran it in for the game-winning score on his only catch of the day.

Blowout of the week: The Cowboys were happy with the victory but extremely unhappy with their effort in a 27-3 rout of the hapless Bears. Dallas managed only 180 total yards, including just 56 rushing (none in the first half) against the second-worst defense in the league. Chicago sacked Cowboys quarterback Troy Aikman three times, pressured him on nearly every play and knocked him down five times. But Bears quarterback Rick Mirer was even worse, going 11-of-21 for 62 yards.

Nail-biter of the week: For the third time in four weeks, the Chiefs managed a fantastic finish as Pete Stoyanovich's 41-yard field goal at 13:04 of overtime sent Kansas City past the Seahawks, 20-17, at Arrowhead Stadium.

Hit of the week: By Rams defensive tackle Jeff Zgonina, who knocked Raiders quarterback Jeff George silly with a late hit. The resulting penalty to Zgonina wiped out an interception and woke up George, who scrambled 11 yards for another first down on the next play. The Raiders, who trailed 14-0 at the time, rallied for a 35-17 win.

Oddity of the week: Adrian Murrell had more carries (40) than the Bengals had offensive plays (39).

Top rusher: Napoleon Kaufman carried 26 times for 162 yards in the Raiders' victory over the Rams.

Top passer: Stan Humphries was 17-of-26 for a career-high 358 yards, including three touchdown passes to Tony Martin, in the Chargers' 21-17 win over the Ravens.

Top receiver: Tony Martin caught four passes for 155 yards and three TDs against Baltimore after entering with only 11 receptions for 163 yards in San Diego's first four games.

Notes: The Broncos-Falcons game marked the first time Denver coach Mike Shanahan and Atlanta coach Dan Reeves were together on the same field since Reeves, then the Broncos' coach, fired Shanahan, then the Broncos' offensive coordinator, for alleged "insubordination" in 1991. The coaches exchanged pleasantries at midfield after Denver's 29-21 victory. . . . Jets quarterback Neil O'Donnell had thrown seven touchdown passes in 1997—all to different receivers. . . . Shannon Sharpe's six receptions against Atlanta increased the Denver tight end's career total to 410. Combined with Sterling Sharpe's 595 receptions for the Packers from 1988 to '94, they became the only brother duo in NFL history with a combined 1,000 catches.

Quote of the week: Jets cornerback Ray Mickens, on teammate Adrian Murrell: "Man, there was blood all over him. I don't know whose blood it was. It was everybody's—his, theirs, ours. But he kept taking it and coming back for more."

Hero of the week: Packers defensive end Gabe Wilkins picked off a Trent Dilfer pass, leaped over the low-flying quarterback (who had jumped in front of Wilkins in an attempt to tackle the 6-5, 305-pounder) and rumbled 77 yards for a touchdown in Green Bay's 21-16 win over Tampa Bay.

Goat of the week: Despite kicking four field goals to help Arizona build a 19-10 lead over Minnesota, Kevin Butler missed a 31-yard attempt when it mattered most—with less than a minute remaining and a chance to seal a victory for the Cardinals. Following Butler's miss, the Vikings mounted a scoring drive to win, 20-19.

Sub of the week: When starting quarterback Dave Brown left with a strained pectoral muscle in the second quarter, the Giants trailed the Cowboys, 6-0. But backup Danny Kanell gave New York the spark it needed for a 20-17, come-from-behind victory. Kanell's numbers weren't spectacular—10-of-17 for 101 yards—but he didn't make a mistake and led the team on three scoring drives.

Comeback of the week: It was a tale of two halves for Steelers quarterback Kordell Stewart against the Ravens. After throwing three interceptions in a first half—which ended with Pittsburgh trailing, 21-0—Stewart rallied the Steelers to a 42-34 triumph to match the biggest comeback in team history. Stewart threw for three touchdowns and ran for two more in the second half, including a 74-yard romp.

Blowout of the week: The Broncos manhandled the Patriots, 34-13, in a much-anticipated Monday night matchup of undefeated teams. Terrell Davis rushed for 171 yards on 32 carries and scored two touchdowns for Denver.

Nail-biter of the week: Trailing 19-17, the Vikings took possession after the Cardinals' Kevin Butler was wide left on a 31-yard field goal attempt with 52 seconds left. Minnesota quarterback Brad Johnson took his team 62 yards in 37 seconds to get in field-goal range, and with 10 seconds left, Eddie Murray kicked a 38-yarder to give the Vikings a 20-19 victory.

Hit of the week: Jacksonville's Kelvin Pritchett had three sacks in the Jaguars' 21-13 victory over the Bengals, but one in particular thwarted Cincinnati's comeback attempt. Down 14-13 early in the fourth quarter, the Bengals tried a play-action fake on third-and-1. But Pritchett wasn't fooled. He sacked quarterback Jeff Blake, and Cincinnati never fully recovered from the loss of momentum.

Oddity of the week: Earlier in the season, the Vikings released kicker Greg Davis; they said he wasn't getting the job done. But when San Diego's John Carney was sidelined because of a knee injury, the Chargers decided to take a chance on Davis. Davis kicked six field goals—one off the NFL record—in a 25-10 victory over Oakland.

Top rusher: Gary Brown rushed 36 times for 181 yards and a touchdown in the Chargers' victory over the Raiders.

Top passer: Troy Aikman was 34-of-52 for 317 yards and one touchdown in the Cowboys' losing effort against the Giants.

Top receiver: Steelers wide receiver Yancey Thigpen caught seven passes for 162 yards in Pittsburgh's come-from-behind win over the Ravens.

Notes: Because of torn cartilage in his knee, Bills defensive end Jim Jeffcoat missed the first game of his NFL career. A 1983 first-round pick by Dallas, Jeffcoat had played in 224 consecutive regular-season games in 12 seasons with the Cowboys and two-plus seasons with Buffalo. . . . Minnesota's Eddie Murray made his 234th consecutive extra point, tying a league record set by the 49ers' Tommy Davis from 1959-65. . . . The Seahawks-Oilers game, because it was the first of the 4 p.m. ET contests completed, was officially recognized as the 10,000th in NFL history.

Quote of the week: New Orleans coach Mike Ditka, after his team's 20-17 victory against his former team, the Bears: "I went nuts. I was an absolute basket case out there. I'm sure every camera in the world was on me, but I don't care anymore. I don't care. I'm going to be me. That's it. If I have to holler at somebody, I'm going to holler at them. I told them before the game, I said, 'I'll holler at you for 10 seconds, it only lasts 10 seconds and it automatically goes away. But for 10 seconds I'm going to be mad.' " Hero of the week: Jaguars running back James Stewart became only the fourth player in NFL history to rush for five touchdowns in a game in leading Jacksonville past the Eagles, 38-21. Stewart's 15-carry, 102-yard effort was only the second 100-yard game of his three-year career. Stewart received most of the carries because Natrone Means left in the first quarter with a sprained ankle.

Goat of the week: Bengals quarterback Jeff Blake passed for 130 yards and no touchdowns in Cincinnati's 30-7 loss to Tennessee. Blake completed just one pass in the second half before being replaced by Boomer Esiason, who guided the team to its only score.

Sub of the week: Redskins running back Stephen Davis, subbing for the injured Terry Allen, had the biggest game of his career by running for two touchdowns and 94 yards on 22 carries in Washington's 21-16 victory over Dallas on Monday night.

Comeback of the week: There weren't many big comebacks in Week 7, but Pittsburgh overcame a 10-point first-quarter deficit to defeat Indianapolis, 24-22. After the Steelers built a 24-13 lead, the Colts scored nine consecutive points, including a touchdown with 3:35 remaining. But Pittsburgh's Chris Oldham batted away the potential tying two-point conversion pass to Brian Stablein after a holding penalty gave the Colts the ball at the 1.

Blowout of the week: Buffalo's chances were diminished early when starting quarterback Todd Collins left the game with a bruised shoulder on the team's second possession. The Bills never recovered and were trounced, 33-6, by New England. Patriots quarterback Drew Bledsoe threw two touchdown passes and Curtis Martin ran for 99 yards and one TD.

Nail-biter of the week: The 0-6 Bears were given virtually no chance of keeping it close against the defending champion Packers. With 1:54 left, though, Chicago trailed, 24-23, with a chance to tie if coach Dave Wannstedt elected to kick the extra point. But Wannstedt went for the win at home, choosing to attempt a two-point conversion. Erik Kramer's pass sailed past Raymont Harris and Green Bay escaped with a victory.

Hit of the week: With the game tied at 14, Carolina regained possession on its 47 with 5:31 left against the Vikings. On the first play, quarterback Steve Beuerlein threw a pass to receiver Rae Carruth, but linebacker Ed McDaniel ripped the ball away from the rookie receiver. Nose guard Jerry Ball tipped the ball, technically a fumble, into the air, and Fernando Smith caught it and returned it to Carolina's 45. McDaniel's clutch play led to Minnesota's game-winning scoring drive.

Oddity of the week: Vikings quarterback Brad Johnson completed a touchdown pass to himself against Carolina. Early in the fourth quarter, Johnson's third-and-goal pass was batted down by Panthers nose tackle Greg Kragen. The ball went right to Johnson, who caught it, ran by linebacker Micheal Barrow in the backfield and scrambled 3 yards to give the Vikings a 14-7 lead. It was the first time in NFL history that a quarterback completed a touchdown pass to himself.

Top rusher: Barry Sanders carried 24 times for 215 yards and two touchdowns in Detroit's 27-9 win over Tampa Bay.

Top passer: Dan Marino was 27-of-38 for 372 yards and two touchdowns in Miami's 31-20 win over the Jets.

Top receiver: Philadelphia's Irving Fryar made 10 receptions for 124 yards and three touchdowns in the Eagles' loss at Jacksonville.

Notes: Minnesota's Eddie Murray set an NFL record by kicking his 235th, 236th and 237th consecutive extra points in the 21-14 victory over the Panthers. Murray broke a 32-year-old league record of 234 in a row held by the 49ers' Tommy Davis. Not far behind Murray was Pittsburgh's Norm Johnson, who tied Davis' previous record by making all three of his PAT tries against Indianapolis, giving him 234 in a row. . . . Falcons defensive lineman Chuck Smith had five sacks and Atlanta set a team record with 10 in a 23-17 victory over the Saints. . . . Tyrone Wheatley's career-high 103 yards snapped an NFL-high 23-game streak in which no Giants running back gained 100 yards. . . . Barry Sanders' 215 yards rushing, including the two longest touchdown runs of his career (80 and 82 yards), moved him past Jim Brown into fourth place on the NFL's career rushing list. Sanders also became the first player in league history to score two TDs of at least 80 yards in the same game.

Quote of the week: Bengals coach Bruce Coslet, after his team's 30-7 loss at Tennessee: "We can't run. We can't pass. We can't stop the run. We can't stop the pass. We can't kick. Other than that . . . we're just not a very good football team right now."

Hero of the week: Raiders running back Napoleon Kaufman rushed for 227 yards and one touchdown in carrying Oakland to a 28-25 win over the previously undefeated Broncos. Kaufman ran 57 yards on the first play from scrimmage to set up the game's first touchdown and clinched the victory with an 83-yard TD run in the fourth quarter.

Goat of the week: Jaguars running back James Stewart, who scored five touchdowns the previous week, didn't have any in Jacksonville's 26-22 loss at Dallas. Stewart had only 40 yards on 17 carries as the Cowboys' defense allowed 42 rushing yards.

Sub of the week: Jets coach Bill Parcells benched starting quarterback Neil O'Donnell at halftime and turned to backup Glenn Foley, who came off the bench to pass for 200 yards and one touchdown in rallying the team to a 24-19 win over New England. Foley's 17-of-23 performance included 14 consecutive completions at one point.

Comeback of the week: When Glenn Foley entered the game in the third quarter, the Jets trailed, 12-3. But he rallied New York with consistent passing, including strikes of 20, 18, 23, 21 and 27 yards. With 4:28 left in the game, Foley threw a 5-yard TD pass to complete a 76-yard drive.

Blowout of the week: Everything that could go wrong did go wrong for the Chargers in a 31-3 loss at Kansas City on Thursday night. They committed 19 penalties—three short of the NFL record—for 146 yards. Meanwhile, Elvis Grbac threw two first-half touchdown passes to Andre Rison and also scored on a 1-yard run. Grbac finished with 235 yards.

Nail-biter of the week: Detroit's Scott Mitchell threw a 4-yard touchdown pass with 1:55 remaining, giving the Lions a 20-20 tie with the Giants and sending the game into overtime. But the extra session didn't last long, as Giants quarterback Danny Kanell connected with Chris Calloway on a 68-yard touchdown pass on the third play. Calloway hauled in Kanell's pass at the Lions' 45 just as cornerback Corey Raymond fell down. Calloway went the rest of the way untouched.

Hit of the week: Atlanta quarterback Chris Chandler failed to finish his fourth consecutive home game when he suffered his second concussion of the season in a 35-28 loss to San Francisco. The hit by defensive lineman Junior Bryant knocked out Chandler in the fourth quarter.

Oddity of the week: Jets kicker John Hall continued his strange season when he missed a 68-yard field-goal attempt to conclude the first half. The kick, the longest field-goal attempt in the NFL since the Broncos' Fred Steinfort attempted a 73-yarder at New England in 1980, was short. Hall made a 35-yarder but missed from 35 and 36 yards. For the season, he had made 5-of-6 tries from beyond 40 yards but just 9-of-15 from inside the 40.

Top rusher: Napoleon Kaufman's 227-yard rushing performance broke Bo Jackson's Raiders record of 221 yards set against Seattle on November 30, 1987.

Top passer: Vinny Testaverde was 32-of-47 for 331 yards and one touchdown in Baltimore's 24-13 loss to Miami.

Top receiver: The Giants' Chris Calloway caught five passes for 145 yards and one touchdown against Detroit.

Notes: Since Norv Turner became Redskins coach, they are 0-6 in games played the week after they have played the Cowboys. . . . Saints quarterback Danny Wuerffel had a rough day against the Panthers. He was sacked seven times, hurried 12 times and had three of his passes batted down. Wuerffel had been sacked 14 times in the past six quarters. . . . The Oilers won their second consecutive game before their biggest home crowd of the season as 31,042 fans half-filled the Liberty Bowl in Memphis. The previous high of 30,171 was on opening day. . . . Herschel Walker provided the offensive spark in Dallas' 26-22 victory over Jacksonville. Starting at fullback in place of the injured Daryl Johnston, Walker turned a short reception over the middle into a 64-yard TD to erase a 22-19 Jaguars lead.

Quote of the week: Ravens coach Ted Marchibroda was beside himself about his team's inept defense: "Teams that can't throw, they can't throw until they get to us. Teams that can't run, when they hit us, we make them well."

HIGHLIGHTS

Hero of the week: Seattle's Warren Moon was 28-of-44 for 409 yards and five touchdowns, three of them to Joey Galloway, in the Seahawks' 45-34 victory over Oakland. Moon's five TD passes equaled his personal best and tied a club record.

Goat of the week: Falcons rookie Tony Graziani, making his first NFL start, was just 4-of-18 passing for 24 yards and two interceptions in a 21-12 loss to Carolina. Atlanta needed nearly 25 minutes to get a first down, and at halftime coach Dan Reeves decided he had seen enough of the rookie quarterback.

Sub of the week: Running back Leroy Hoard had missed three of Minnesota's last four games with a pulled hamstring and a shoulder injury, but when starter Robert Smith sprained his ankle in the second quarter against Tampa Bay, Hoard came in to gain 40 yards on 18 carries in a 10-6 victory over the Bucs.

Comeback of the week: The Bears rallied from a 15-point deficit in the final 7½ minutes to force overtime and then upset Miami, 36-33, in OT. The win was Chicago's first of the season. Miami's offense went three-and-out on four consecutive possessions late in the game, and Dan Marino's fumble in overtime led to Jeff Jaeger's game-winning 35-yard field goal.

Blowout of the week: Steve McNair accounted for four touchdowns—running for two and throwing for two—in leading Tennessee to a 41-14 victory over Arizona. All five Oilers touchdowns came after turnovers by the Cardinals, who had seven in the game. Arizona's Jake Plummer threw four interceptions in his first NFL start.

Nail-biter of the week: In the fourth quarter at Pittsburgh, the Jaguars recovered a fumble by Steelers running back Jerome Bettis and took advantage of the turnover by taking a 17-14 lead on a 3-yard touchdown pass from Mark Brunell to Pete Mitchell. But Norm Johnson's 19-yard field goal with 2:21 left in regulation forced overtime, and Bettis atoned for his fourth-quarter mistake by fielding Kordell Stewart's quick shovel pass and barreling 17 yards for the winning touchdown 5:47 into overtime to give Pittsburgh a 23-17 victory.

Hit of the week: In overtime of the Denver-Buffalo game, the Bills ran receiver Andre Reed on an end-around pass. Broncos defensive end Alfred Williams dropped Reed for a 17-yard loss, a loss that became 20 yards after Reed fumbled, giving Denver possession at its 42. Eight plays later, the Broncos were on the Bills' 15, setting up Jason Elam's game-winning field goal from 33 yards.

Oddity of the week: For only the second time in NFL history, there were two Monday night games. Because the World Series between the Marlins and Indians went seven games, Game 7 was played at Miami's ProPlayer Stadium on Sunday night, pushing the Bears-Dolphins game back one day. In the regularly scheduled Monday night game, the Packers beat the Patriots, 28-10, in a rematch of Super Bowl XXXI.

Top rusher: Terrell Davis ran for 207 yards and one touchdown on 42 carries in Denver's overtime win at Buffalo.

Top passer: Warren Moon's 409 passing yards accounted for the bulk of Seattle's 554 total yards in the victory over Oakland.

Top receiver: Yancey Thigpen caught 11 passes for 196 yards in the Steelers' overtime win against Jacksonville.

Notes: Brett Favre's 20-yard TD pass to Derrick Mayes was the 1,809th completion of his career, moving him ahead of Bart Starr for the top spot on the Packers' career list. . . . The Steelers are 6-0 in overtime at Three Rivers Stadium. . . . The Jaguars lost consecutive games for the first time in a year (October 20 and 27, 1996). . . . The Falcons extended their string of consecutive games with at least one sack to 20. . . . Jake Plummer became the sixth rookie quarterback to start for the Cardinals since 1960. . . . The Oilers' 41 points were the most by a visiting team since the Cardinals moved to Arizona in 1988. . . . The Chargers were 4-4 for the fifth time in six seasons. The exception was 1994, when they were 7-1 and went to the Super Bowl. . . . Philadelphia was 4-0 at home, 0-4 on the road. . . .

Baltimore quarterback Vinny Testaverde passed for 142 yards in a 20-17 victory against the Redskins to move past Y.A. Tittle into 23rd place on the NFL's career list. Testaverde ended the day with 28,381 passing yards. . . . The 49ers extended their string of quarters without yielding a rushing touchdown to 35. . . . Cincinnati's Eric Bieniemy set a team record with a 102-yard kickoff return. . . . Terrell Davis surpassed 1,000 yards rushing in his eighth game of the season, the fastest in Broncos history. It also was the 16th 100-yard game of Davis' career, a team record. His 207 yards and 42 carries were the most ever given up by the Bills.

Quote of the week: New Orleans coach Mike Ditka, after the Saints lost, 23-0, to the 49ers: "We are just not very good. We are below the floor now. I think I've seen worse teams perform better by accident on offense. You can draw them up in the dirt and make it work better than we make it work."

Hero of the week: Two weeks after replacing Neil O'Donnell and leading the Jets to a comeback win over the Patriots, Glenn Foley did it again, this time against the Ravens. The fourth-year quarterback led the Jets on a 60-yard drive in overtime, resulting in John Hall's 37-yard game-winning field goal with 10:02 left.

Goat of the week: With the score tied at 28 and three minutes left, winless Indianapolis had the ball at Tampa Bay's 5. But on a fake handoff to Lamont Warren, Colts quarterback Kelly Holcomb lost the ball before embarking on a bootleg. His fumble was recovered by defensive end Chidi Ahanotu and the Bucs went on to win, 31-28.

Sub of the week: Filling in for Tim Biakabutuka, who suffered bruised ribs on the fifth play of the game, Panthers running back Fred Lane rushed for a franchise-record 147 yards and three touchdowns in Carolina's 38-14 victory. Lane, an undrafted rookie from Division II Lane College (Tenn.), had some incredible runs, including a 15-yard TD on Carolina's opening drive when he appeared stopped at the line of scrimmage but broke three tackles and ran past five others on his way to the end zone.

Comeback of the week: Cardinals quarterback Kent Graham scored two touchdowns in the final 3:10 to lead Arizona over Philadelphia, 31-21. Graham, sidelined by a leg injury since October 12, replaced struggling rookie Jake Plummer. Arizona's defense and special teams set up Graham's touchdowns. The Eagles' Mark Seay fumbled a punt, leading to the Cardinals' first fourth-quarter score, and Mike Caldwell intercepted a pass that led to Arizona's second fourth-quarter touchdown.

Blowout of the week: The Raiders came into their game against the Panthers with 15 plays of 40 or more yards, but they made just one against Carolina—a 41-yard pass from Jeff George to Tim Brown. The Raiders also struggled on defense as the Panthers tied a team record with 28 points in the first half.

Nail-biter of the week: After William Floyd's 1-yard touchdown run with 5:57 left put the 49ers ahead 14-10, the Cowboys had one more chance to take the lead. But on second and long from the 49ers' 40, a Troy Aikman pass to Michael Irvin fell incomplete when Irvin and 49ers cornerback Rod Woodson got tangled up at the goal line. One official threw a flag, but after a discussion, the officiating crew ruled the contact was incidental. On the next play, safety Tim McDonald intercepted an Aikman pass, sealing the 49ers' victory.

Hit of the week: Cincinnati linebacker Reinard Wilson delivered a late hit on San Diego quarterback Stan Humphries in the third quarter that will be remembered more for Humphries' reaction to the hit than the hit itself. After Wilson slammed the veteran quarterback to the turf, Humphries' eyes rolled around in their sockets as he tried to refocus them, a site that was unnerving to even the most blood-thirsty of fans. Humphries suffered a concussion on the play and his career was put in jeopardy. The Bengals won, 38-31.

Oddity of the week: Two weeks after defeating the Colts 9-6, the Bills defeated the Dolphins by the same score.

Top rusher: Jamal Anderson gained 159 yards and scored a touchdown in the Falcons' 34-31 overtime victory against the Rams.

Top passer: Tony Banks was 23-of-34 for 401 yards and two touchdowns in the Rams' loss.

Top receiver: Isaac Bruce was on the receiving end of 10 Banks passes, burning Falcons cornerback Ray Buchanan early and often. Bruce caught TD passes of 9 and 29 yards in the first half before the Falcons started rolling coverage toward him.

Notes: The Chargers' Eric Metcalf returned two punts for touchdowns against the Bengals, giving him an NFL-record 10 TDs on punt and kickoff returns in his career. Of his eight punt returns for touchdowns, four have come against the Bengals. . . . On their first 15 plays against Buffalo, the Dolphins gained 23 yards. . . . Corey Dillon became the first Bengals rookie to rush for 100 yards in a game since Ickey Woods in 1988. . . . Dan Marino's 33 percent completion rate (5-of-15) against the Bills was the worst of his career. . . . Running back Marcus Allen threw the fifth touchdown pass of his career (this one to Danan Hughes) to help the Chiefs defeat the Steelers, 13-10. . . . The Cowboys are 1-4 against the 49ers in the Barry Switzer era. . . . In a battle of old guys, John Elway, 37, led the Broncos to a 30-27 win over Warren Moon, 40, and the Seahawks. Elway passed two career milestones in the process. He became the third player in NFL history to reach the 50,000-yard mark in total offense, and he moved past Fran Tarkenton in passing yards by upping his total to 47,019. . . . The Jaguars' Clyde Simmons recorded his 106th career sack in a game against the Oilers. . . . Chicago receiver Curtis Conway was ejected from a 31-8 loss to the Redskins when he made contact with an official and threw his helmet after a play in the end zone.

Quote of the week: Patriots running back Keith Byars after his team's third straight loss, to the Vikings: "There will always be some peaks and valleys. We can't seem to find the bottom of this valley."

Hero of the week: Denver's Darrien Gordon set the tone for the Broncos' 34-0 rout of Carolina by returning two punts for touchdowns in the first quarter. Gordon, the top-ranked punt returner in NFL history, went virtually untouched on 82- and 75-yard returns at a snowy Mile High Stadium.

Goat of the week: The Ravens' quarterback tandem of Vinny Testaverde and Eric Zeier combined to give up six turnovers in an embarrassing 37-0 loss at Pittsburgh. Testaverde, weakened by the flu and frustrated by the Steelers' ever-changing defense, threw interceptions on Baltimore's first three possessions, and backup Zeier threw one interception and fumbled twice. During one stretch in the first half, Testaverde and Zeier threw three interceptions in three passes.

Sub of the week: Bengals quarterback Boomer Esiason replaced starter Jeff Blake, who left the game because of a slight concussion in the third quarter, and sparked Cincinnati to a 28-13 victory over Indianapolis. Esiason led the Bengals on three second-half touchdown drives to break open a game that was tied at 7 at halftime.

Comeback of the week: In the first quarter of the Seattle-San Diego game, the Chargers scored two touchdowns to take a 14-0 lead. After an exchange of field goals made the score 17-3, Seattle began its comeback. Thanks to quarterback Warren Moon going 24-of-45 for 295 yards and two touchdowns, the Seahawks rallied to beat San Diego, 37-31.

Blowout of the week: The Steelers dominated nearly every statistical category and the Ravens committed seven turnovers in Pittsburgh's 37-0 win. Steelers running back Jerome Bettis' rushing yardage (114) was more than the combined passing yardage (112) of Baltimore quarterbacks Vinny Testaverde and Eric Zeier.

Nail-biter of the week: After leading, 21-10, at halftime, the Vikings allowed the Bears to take a 22-21 lead late in the fourth quarter. With less than four minutes left, Vikings quarterback Brad Johnson led his team on a 75-yard drive in nine plays. Running back Leroy Hoard capped it off by scoring a touchdown with 54 seconds remaining, and Minnesota added a two-point conversion for a 29-22 victory.

Hit of the week: The Seahawks sacked Chargers quarterback Craig Whelihan—making his first NFL start—on fourth-and-6 at midfield with 43 seconds left, causing a fumble to secure Seattle's 37-31 victory.

Oddity of the week: After losing a bet that his defense would be unable to stop a crossing pattern by Oakland wide receiver Tim Brown, Saints coach Mike Ditka handed $50 to defensive coordinator Zaven Yaralian on the sidelines late in the game. Ditka laughed as Yaralian counted out $25 in change. The NFL did not laugh; it fined Ditka a few days later.

Top rusher: Glenn Foley was 25-of-48 for 322 yards and one touchdown in the Jets' 24-17 loss to Miami.

Top passer: Eddie George had 32 carries for 122 yards and one touchdown in the Oilers' 10-6 victory over the Giants.

Top receiver: Denver's Shannon Sharpe caught eight passes for 174 yards against Carolina.

Notes: Darrien Gordon became the first Bronco to return two punts for touchdowns in the same game since Rick Upchurch did it against Cleveland on September 26, 1976. . . . Arizona tackle Lomas Brown aggravated a foot injury before the game, ending a 189-game streak. . . . Dallas' Emmitt Smith scored his 110th career rushing touchdown, tying him with Walter Payton for second on the career list. . . . Mike Holmgren coached his 100th game with the Packers. . . . New England's Adam Vinatieri had a streak of consecutive field goals stopped at 25. . . . Kansas City's Marcus Allen gained 37 yards to join six others in NFL history with 12,000 yards rushing. . . . Detroit's Barry Sanders became the first NFL player to rush for 1,000 yards in nine consecutive seasons. He also surpassed the 100-yard mark for the eighth consecutive road game, breaking a league record he had shared with Allen.

Quote of the week: Oakland receiver Tim Brown, on the grim state of affairs for the 3-7 Raiders:

"I looked up in the stands and saw a sign that said, 'PSL: Please Stop Losing.' That's about as low as it gets at your home stadium."

Hero of the week: With no time left, Pete Stoyanovich booted a 54-yard field goal just over the crossbar to give the Chiefs a dramatic 24-22 victory over the Broncos at Arrowhead Stadium. The win put Kansas City one game behind Denver in the AFC West and preserved the Chiefs' perfect record (5-0) at home.

Goat of the week: With the score tied at 17 and 22 seconds left in regulation, Seattle kicker Todd Peterson was wide right on a 45-yard field-goal attempt. Warren Moon then threw an interception on the first play in overtime. With an offense that had been inept most of the day, Saints coach Mike Ditka didn't waste any time, sending the field-goal unit onto the field on the next play. Doug Brien made Ditka's decision pay off by kicking a 38-yarder to win it, 20-17, for New Orleans.

Sub of the week: Harvey Williams, playing for the injured Derrick Fenner (sprained ankle), scored a career-high four touchdowns as the Raiders defeated the Chargers, 38-13. Coming into the game, Williams had five carries and eight catches on the season.

Comeback of the week: In an ending reminiscent of the days of Clint Longley, the Cowboys scored 11 points in the final 1:55 to defeat the Redskins, 17-14. Troy Aikman capped an 11-play, 97-yard drive with a 6-yard scoring pass to Michael Irvin to cut the Redskins' lead to two points and threw to Emmitt Smith for the tying two-point conversion. After Dallas' defense forced the Redskins to go three-and-out, the Cowboys drove 28 yards on eight plays to Washington's 25, setting up Richie Cunningham's game-winning 42-yard field goal with four seconds left.

Blowout of the week: Jeff George came out gunning as the Raiders opened with six consecutive passes, and the Oakland offense never let up. George finished with 226 yards and three touchdowns as the Raiders rolled over San Diego, 38-13.

Nail-biter of the week: In perhaps the biggest surprise of the 1997 season, the previously winless Colts defeated the defending Super Bowl champion Packers, 41-38. The Colts were led by backup quarterback Paul Justin, who was 24-of-30 for 340 yards and one touchdown. The Colts' defense scored two touchdowns as Indianapolis battled back from 14-3, 28-24 and 31-30 deficits.

Hit of the week: Jaguars defensive tackle Seth Payne, a rookie from Cornell making his first NFL start in place of the injured Don Davey, sent a strong message to the Oilers' Eddie George on the first two plays of the game. Payne stuffed George twice, including a tackle for no gain, as the Jaguars held George, who was averaging 98.2 rushing yards per game, to 54. Jacksonville won, 17-9.

Oddity of the week: A 10-10 tie between the Eagles and Ravens was the NFL's first since the Chiefs and Browns played to a 10-10 tie on November 19, 1989.

Top rusher: Baltimore rookie Jay Graham rushed for 154 yards on 35 carries in the Ravens' 10-10 tie with the Eagles.

Top passer: Arizona's Jake Plummer was 22-of-33 for 388 yards with one touchdown and two interceptions in the Cardinals' 19-10 loss to the Giants.

Top receiver: The Cardinals' Frank Sanders was the recipient of nine of Jake Plummer's passes for 188 yards and a score.

Notes: Steve Mariucci became the first NFL coach to have a 10-game winning streak in his first season as the 49ers defeated the Panthers, 27-19, to clinch the NFC West crown. . . . The Chiefs' Derrick Thomas became the 15th player in league history to amass 100 sacks. . . . With their 27-7 win over the Patriots, the Buccaneers were assured of ending their NFL-record streak of 14 consecutive seasons of double-digit losses. . . . With their 20-3 loss to the Steelers, the Bengals were assured their seventh consecutive non-winning season. . . . The Rams' Jeff Wilkins, who had never missed two consecutive field-goal attempts in his three-plus seasons in the league, missed two in St. Louis' 27-21 loss to Atlanta, making it four consecutive misses. . . . The Jets' Otis Smith intercepted two passes and caused another interception with a tipped pass. He scored on one of the interceptions as New York defeated Chicago, 23-

15. . . . Falcons kicker Morten Andersen became the sixth player in NFL history to score 1,600 points, joining George Blanda, Nick Lowery, Jan Stenerud, Gary Anderson and Lou Groza. . . . The Cardinals lost for the 13th time in their past 14 games against the Giants in New York. . . . It took Denver's Terrell Davis 41 games to rush for 4,000 career yards. Only Eric Dickerson (33 games), Jim Brown (38) and Earl Campbell (39) reached the plateau in fewer games.

Quote of the week: Steelers running back Jerome Bettis, on a wind-chill near zero for Pittsburgh's game against Cincinnati: "I like it cold, but not that cold. Woo-o-o, it was cold."

Hero of the week: Lions running back Barry Sanders carried 24 times for 216 yards, including touchdown runs of 80 and 4 yards, in Detroit's 32-10 win over Indianapolis. It was the fourth 200-yard game of Sanders' career, two shy of O.J. Simpson's NFL record.

Goat of the week: Redskins receiver Michael Westbrook didn't have a good day. In the final minute of overtime, after his team had reached the Giants' 38, Westbrook was penalized 15 yards for slamming his helmet to the ground after an official had ruled that he didn't catch a pass along the sideline. The Redskins subsequently recovered some of the yardage, but Scott Blanton's 54-yard field goal attempt was short and wide right and the game ended in a 7-7 tie.

Sub of the week: Defensive back Roger Jones, a six-year NFL veteran signed by Baltimore 18 days earlier, intercepted a pass and got in on 18 snaps in his first game of the year, helping the Ravens to a 31-14 win over Buffalo.

Comeback of the week: In one of the few games of Week 13 in which a team rallied to win, Carolina rebounded from a 7-0 second-quarter deficit to defeat the Rams, 16-10. The Rams scored the game's first touchdown on Leslie O'Neal's 66-yard fumble return, but the Panthers answered with a touchdown catch by Rocket Ismail and three field goals by John Kasay. A goal-line stand by Carolina with 1:13 left preserved the victory.

Blowout of the week: Green Bay routed Dallas, 45-17, at Lambeau Field to avenge eight consecutive losses to the Cowboys, the last seven in Dallas. Dorsey Levens rushed for a club-record 190 yards, including two touchdowns, and Brett Favre passed for four TDs. The Packers scored every time they had the ball in the second half.

Nail-biter of the week: A 7-7 tie between the Redskins and the Giants included Michael Westbrook's unsportsmanlike penalty in overtime and Washington quarterback Gus Frerotte headbutting a concrete wall during a first-half touchdown celebration. (He suffered a sprained neck and left the game.) Each team missed a field-goal attempt in overtime.

Hit of the week: Left end Rick Lyle preserved the Jets' 23-21 win over the Vikings by grabbing hold of running back Robert Smith's foot and pulling him down before he could reach the goal line on a two-point conversion attempt on the final play of the game. A TD catch by tight end Andrew Glover had cut the Jets' lead to two points.

Oddity of the week: With Kansas City punter Louis Aguiar in punt formation, he took the snap and unleashed a towering spiral—with his hands, not his foot. The Seahawks appeared confused and Chiefs rookie Kevin Lockett grabbed the ball over punt returner Ronnie Harris deep in Seattle territory, setting up a 1-yard touchdown run by Marcus Allen that helped lead the Chiefs to a 19-14 win. Harris said he knew it was a pass, but some of his teammates didn't. They stood around, reacting as if the ball was a punt that was either going to bounce into the end zone or be fair caught.

Top rusher: Barry Sanders had 24 carries for 216 yards and two touchdowns in the Lions' victory over the Colts.

Top passer: Dan Marino was 38-of-60 for 389 yards in the Dolphins' 27-24 loss to New England.

Top receiver: Minnesota's Jake Reed caught eight passes for 150 yards and two touchdowns against the Jets.

Notes: Barry Sanders became the first running back to run for 100 yards in 10 consecutive games in the same season. He also became the first player to score three touchdowns on runs of at least 80 yards in a season. . . . Chicago linebacker Bryan Cox lost his composure after he was called for a roughing penalty on Tampa Bay quarterback Trent Dilfer in the Bears' 13-7 upset win. Cox's outburst caused referees to throw another flag, this time for unsportsmanlike conduct. After lectures from teammates and coaches, Cox quit as team captain after the game. . . . Detroit's Jason Hanson broke Eddie Murray's team record by making his 21st consecutive field goal. After tying Murray's record of 19 with a 38-yarder, Hanson broke it with a 52-yarder, then extended his streak with a 55-yarder. . . . Attendance for the Carolina-St. Louis game was 64,609, the 23rd consecutive sellout for the Rams, who have played to capacity crowds in every game since moving to St. Louis in 1995. . . . The Steelers are winless against the Eagles (0-7) at Philadelphia's Veterans Stadium, which opened in 1971. . . . Buffalo's Andre Reed had five catches in a 31-14 defeat to the Oilers, giving him 821 in his career, surpassing Steve Largent (819) for third place on the NFL's career list. . . . New England's four interception returns for touchdowns this season is a franchise record. . . . Miami's Karim Abdul-Jabbar set a club record for rushing touchdowns in a season (13). . . . After going eight years without a tie game, the NFL had its second in as many weeks.

Quote of the week: Saints coach Mike Ditka, after his team lost to Atlanta, 20-3, to fall to 4-8 on the season: "I'm probably the wrong guy for this job, I'll say that. They are probably better off getting somebody else. I don't have it any more. They say God puts people in places for reasons. He probably put me here to be humbled. And I deserve it."

Hero of the week: Barry Sanders ran for 167 yards and scored three touchdowns as Detroit defeated Chicago, 55-20, on Thanksgiving Day. It was the 11th consecutive game Sanders rushed for at least 100 yards, tying a league record held by Marcus Allen.

Goat of the week: In another Thanksgiving Day game, Cowboys quarterback Troy Aikman threw three interceptions in a 27-14 loss to the Oilers. Aikman was unusually wild early on as Tennessee intercepted two of his passes in the first quarter, turning both into touchdowns.

Sub of the week: Baltimore quarterback Eric Zeier, subbing for the injured Vinny Testaverde, rallied the Ravens to two fourth-quarter touchdowns and a near upset over Jacksonville. His second TD pass, a 7-yarder to Eric Green, cut the Jaguars' lead to 29-27 with 1:10 left. But on the 2-point conversion attempt that would have tied the game, Zeier tripped over the leg of left tackle Jonathan Ogden on a quarterback draw and was stopped short of the goal line.

Comeback of the week: The Lions rallied from a 17-3 second-quarter deficit by scoring 45 consecutive points to run away with a 55-20 victory over Chicago. Detroit's onslaught began after the Bears took a 20-10 lead on Jeff Jaeger's 32-yard field goal with 1:32 left in the first half.

Blowout of the week: In one of the more stunning scores of the season, the Chiefs whipped the 49ers, 44-9, handing San Francisco only its second loss of the season and ending its 11-game winning streak. Led by quarterback Rich Gannon, the Chiefs scored their most points in a game in 12 seasons and handed the 49ers their worst regular-season defeat in 17 years.

Nail-biter of the week: The Eagles built a 41-28 lead over Cincinnati, then had to rally in the final minute for a 44-42 victory. Boomer Esiason nearly pulled off a comeback for the Bengals, throwing two of his four touchdown passes in the fourth quarter. Cincinnati went ahead 42-41 with a minute to play on Brian Milne's 1-yard touchdown run, but Philadelphia's Chris Boniol kicked a game-winning 31-yard field goal as time expired.

Hit of the week: A sack by Steelers defensive end Nolan Harrison on Arizona's last drive in the fourth quarter set the Cardinals back to the 28, enough to force Joe Nedney to attempt a field goal from a longer distance than his career best of 45 yards. Nedney missed and the Steelers went on to win 26-20 in overtime, the winning score coming on a 10-yard TD run by Jerome Bettis.

Oddity of the week: Green Bay finally put to rest a Metrodome hex by beating the Vikings, 27-11, in Minneapolis. Packers coach Mike Holmgren had been 0-5 at Minnesota's home stadium since taking over for Lindy Infante after the 1991 season. Most of the losses were close, including three game-winning field goals by Minnesota's Fuad Reveiz. But this time the Packers sacked Vikings quarterback Brad Johnson six times and never trailed en route to a convincing victory.

Top rusher: Terrell Davis rushed 26 times for 178 yards and one touchdown in Denver's 38-28 victory over San Diego.

Top passer: Boomer Esiason was 27-of-47 for 378 yards and four touchdowns in the Bengals' loss at Philadelphia.

Top receiver: Rob Moore caught eight passes for 188 yards in Arizona's overtime loss to Pittsburgh.

Notes: Barry Sanders became the No. 2 rusher in NFL history with his 167-yard performance against Chicago. Sanders (13,319) moved past Eric Dickerson (13,259) and trailed only Walter Payton (16,726). . . . Bills running back Thurman Thomas gained 104 yards in 18 carries to move into ninth place on the career rushing list with 11,325 yards. Thomas passed O.J. Simpson (11,236). . . . Andre Reed's first-quarter touchdown was Buffalo's first in the opening quarter in 17 games. . . . Miami quarterback Dan Marino recorded his 12th 3,000-yard passing season, the first NFL quarterback to have that many. . . . Giants cornerback Phillippi Sparks had two interceptions for the second game in a row. . . . Seattle's Warren Moon (274) passed Joe Montana (273) to move into fourth place on the career touchdown pass list. . . . The Dolphins, who never had won in eight previous tries in Oakland, broke the streak with a 34-16 victory over the Raiders. . . . Atlanta beat Seattle despite being outgained (351 yards to 273), having fewer first downs (19-14), running fewer plays (66-49) and having less time of possession (33:33-26:27). The Falcons had no first downs in the second half.

Quote of the week: Bears linebacker Barry Minter, on his inability to chase down Barry Sanders: "Somebody made the comparison that he was in a Lamborghini and I was in a Chevy S-10. You can't ask just one guy to tackle Barry Sanders when you're 10 yards off the ball and have to catch up."

HIGHLIGHTS

Hero of the week: Pittsburgh quarterback Kordell Stewart passed for three touchdowns and ran for two more as the Steelers rallied from a 21-7 first-half deficit to defeat Denver, 35-24, at Three Rivers Stadium. Stewart was 18-of-29 for 303 yards and ran for another 49 yards on 10 carries.

Goat of the week: Philadelphia quarterback Bobby Hoying committed three first-half turnovers—all of which led to Giants touchdowns—as the Eagles lost to New York, 31-21, at Veterans Stadium. It was Hoying's first loss in four NFL starts.

Sub of the week: Jeff Hostetler, making his first start of the season for injured Washington starter Gus Frerotte (who was put on injured reserve with a hip injury suffered the week before), threw for 226 yards and three touchdowns as the Redskins kept their playoff hopes alive by defeating the Cardinals, 38-28.

Comeback of the week: Thanks to a 56-yard kickoff return by David Thompson and heroic efforts by quarterback Tony Banks and receiver Isaac Bruce, the Rams scored 21 consecutive points in the final 11:10 to defeat the Saints, 34-27, at the Superdome. Banks was 22-of-41 for 267 yards and three touchdowns. Bruce caught nine passes for 144 yards and two touchdowns.

Blowout of the week: The Chiefs rushed for a season-high 214 yards, controlled the ball for 41:30 and held the Raiders to 93 yards of total offense and five first downs in whipping Oakland, 30-0.

Nail-biter of the week: Despite 137 yards rushing from Barry Sanders, the Lions botched two extra points and Scott Mitchell threw two interceptions as Detroit lost at Miami, 33-30. Olindo Mare's fourth field goal of the game, a 42-yarder with no time left, won it for the Dolphins.

Hits of the week: New England cornerback Steve Israel delivered a blindside hit to Jaguars quarterback Mark Brunell, forcing a fumble the Patriots recovered on Jacksonville's 48. Four plays later, New England scored a touchdown. On the ensuing kickoff, the Pats' Vernon Crawford jarred the ball loose from the Jaguars' Reggie Barlow, leading to another Patriots touchdown in their 26-20 victory.

Oddity of the week: The Bucs completed a 35-yard pass on their first passing play against the Packers but had only 32 passing yards at halftime, thanks to three sacks of quarterback Trent Dilfer.

Top rusher: Cincinnati's Corey Dillon broke Jim Brown's 40-year-old NFL single-game record for rushing yards by a rookie with 246 yards on 39 carries in the Bengals' 41-14 victory over the Oilers. Dillon also scored a club-record four rushing touchdowns against what had been the NFL's third-ranked run defense.

Top passer: Arizona's Jake Plummer was 19-of-38 for 337 yards and four touchdowns in the Cardinals' 38-28 loss to Washington.

Top receiver: Pittsburgh's Yancey Thigpen caught six passes for 175 yards and three touchdowns in the Steelers' 35-24 victory over the Broncos.

Notes: Jermaine Lewis returned two punts for touchdowns in the Ravens' 31-24 victory over the Seahawks. Until Lewis' feat, no Raven had returned a kick for a touchdown in the team's two-year history. . . . The Colts are 17-5 in their past 22 games against the Jets and 9-2 in their past 11 games against them in the Meadowlands. . . . The Packers' Brett Favre became the first quarterback to throw at least 30 TD passes in four consecutive seasons. . . . Warren Moon completed 12 passes against Baltimore to break Dave Krieg's Seattle record for completions in a season (297). . . . The Chiefs set an NFL record by not allowing a second-half touchdown for the ninth consecutive game, breaking a mark set by the 1934 Lions. . . . Darrell Green played in his 216th game, tying him with Monte Coleman for the most in Redskins history. . . . The Cowboys lost a third consecutive game for the first time since 1990. . . . Dillon became the ninth rookie to rush for 200 yards in a game. . . . Raymont Harris became only the seventh Bear to rush for 1,000 yards in a season. Of the previous six, only three—Walter Payton (10 times total), Neal Anderson (three) and Gale Sayers (two)—did it again. . . . The 49ers' 28-17 victory over the Vikings at 3Com Park was overshadowed by the resignation of owner Eddie Debartolo Jr. in the wake of a gambling investigation.

Quote of the week: Dillon, after his record-setting performance: "When I was growing up playing Pop Warner (football), I watched a lot of film of Brown, Payton, Dorsett, Sayers, Dickerson and a lot of runners. As I watched, I tried to steal a little bit of their running style and add it to mine. It's paid off."

HIGHLIGHTS

Hero of the week: Colts quarterback Jim Harbaugh was 20-of-26 for 255 yards and a career-best four touchdowns in Indianapolis' 41-0 victory over Miami. The Colts scored on every first-half possession.

Goat of the week: In an equally stunning result, Tampa Bay's Trent Dilfer was just 2-of-15 for 38 yards and no touchdowns in a 31-0 loss to the Jets. Dilfer also threw two interceptions, both of which were returned for touchdowns by New York cornerback Otis Smith.

Sub of the week: Seahawks quarterback Jon Kitna, who came into the Seattle-Oakland game having never thrown an NFL pass, was 23-of-37 for 283 yards and one touchdown in a 22-21 come-from-behind victory. Kitna played in relief of starter Warren Moon, who was sidelined with bruised ribs.

Comeback of the week: Seattle had to rally from a 21-3 third-quarter deficit to beat the Raiders. Led by Kitna, the Seahawks closed the gap to 21-19 early in the fourth quarter. Todd Peterson then kicked a game-winning 49-yard field goal with 2:20 left.

Blowout of the week: Miami entered Week 16 with a 9-5 record and Indianapolis was 2-12, but the Colts pulled off a stunning 41-0 win. The Colts defense sacked Dan Marino twice and forced him to fumble twice deep in Miami territory. Both turnovers led to Indianapolis scores.

Nail-biter of the week: Scott Mitchell's 1-yard pass to Herman Moore with three seconds left lifted the Lions to a 14-13 victory against the Vikings. Mitchell engineered a nine-play, 72-yard drive in 1:53 that culminated with the game-winning touchdown.

Hit of the week: In the Detroit-Minnesota game, Lions defensive tackle Luther Elliss stopped Vikings fullback Charles Evans for a 3-yard loss on third down with about two minutes remaining. On the next play, Eddie Murray pushed a 37-yard field goal attempt wide. The Lions took advantage of the Vikings' gaffes by driving for a game-winning touchdown.

Oddity of the week: The Ravens had a unique postgame ceremony after their 21-19 victory over the Oilers. It involved former Baltimore Colts players who ran a play to symbolize the end of an era in the last game at Memorial Stadium. Several former Colts, including Johnny Unitas and Art Donovan, ran the final play in the stadium before handing off the ball to Ravens receiver Michael Jackson to take to the new stadium at Camden Yards.

Top rusher: Barry Sanders rushed 19 times for 138 yards in Detroit's 14-13 victory over Minnesota.

Top passer: Mark Brunell was 24-of-32 for 317 yards in the Jaguars' 20-14 victory over Buffalo.

Top receiver: Green Bay's Antonio Freeman caught 10 passes for 166 yards and two touchdowns.

Notes: Rams rookie David Thompson increased his kickoff-return yardage total to 1,065, making him the third player in club history with more than 1,000 yards in kickoff returns in a season. . . . San Diego native Marcus Allen has scored more touchdowns against the Chargers (23) than any other opponent. . . . Dallas' Emmitt Smith became the fourth NFL running back to gain 1,000 yards in seven consecutive seasons. . . . Corey Dillon set a Bengals rookie rushing record with 1,069 yards. Ickey Woods had 1,066 yards in 1988. . . . The Cardinals allowed five sacks against the Saints, increasing their total for the season to 76, the second-most in NFL history to Philadelphia's 106 in 1986. . . . Tim Brown became Oakland's career all-purpose yardage leader (12,858 yards). . . . Jeff George set a Raiders single-season mark with 3,673 passing yards. . . . Miami offensive tackle Richmond Webb started his 109th consecutive game, tying Hall of Fame center Jim Langer for most in franchise history. . . . The Jets equaled the mark for the greatest turnaround in NFL history with their win against the Buccaneers. The Jets, 1-15 in 1996, improved to 9-6. The last team to make an eight-game turnaround was Indianapolis, in 1992. . . . Detroit wide receiver Herman Moore's six catches gave him 100 for the third consecutive season, tying an NFL record held by San Francisco's Jerry Rice. . . . Lions running back Barry Sanders rushed for at least 100 yards for a record-setting 13th time this season.

Quote of the week: Bengals quarterback Boomer Esiason wasn't very happy when his team fell behind Dallas, 10-0: "I just think some of our guys were looking for autographs instead of playing football. I just told them to calm down and relax, make them realize that just because they had a star on their helmet doesn't mean we couldn't play with them."

Hero of the week: Needing 131 yards to become only the third player in NFL history to rush for 2,000 in a season, Barry Sanders didn't disappoint, rushing for 184 yards on 23 carries in the Lions' 13-10 victory over the Jets. Sanders started slowly (20 yards in the first half) and finished fast (112 in the fourth quarter), hitting the 2,000-yard plateau on a 2-yard run with 2:15 left.

Goat of the week: In a week when many teams rested their best players in preparation for the playoffs, one player who had plenty at stake—Panthers quarterback Kerry Collins—was dreadful. Needing a strong performance to keep his team from having a losing season and to persuade management he was worthy of a $6 million bonus he was eligible for in the offseason, Collins bombed, going 11-of-25 and throwing three interceptions in a 20-13 loss to the Rams. Before being yanked by coach Dom Capers in the third quarter, Collins had compiled a quarterback rating of 34.5, including 8.3 in the first half.

Sub of the week: Although the Eagles lost, it wasn't running back Charlie Garner's fault. Subbing for the injured Ricky Watters, Garner rushed for 115 yards on 18 carries and scored two touchdowns in Philadelphia's 35-32 loss at Washington.

Comeback of the week: After spotting the Jets a 10-0 first-quarter lead, the Lions—who needed to win to secure a playoff spot—scored 13 consecutive points over the next three periods to beat New York. Detroit's winning points came on a 15-yard run by Sanders early in the fourth quarter.

Blowout of the week: Needing a win to assure home-field advantage for its first playoff game, the Broncos didn't fail, routing San Diego, 38-3. Playing without star running back Terrell Davis, the Broncos raced to a 24-3 halftime lead and cruised behind quarterback John Elway's four touchdown passes, including a 68-yarder to Shannon Sharpe on the first play of the second half.

Nail-biter of the week: Trailing 26-14 with less than five minutes left, the Cardinals scored 15 points in the final 4:45 to beat Atlanta, 29-26. The Cardinals' game-winning drive covered 80 yards in 12 plays, ending in a 1-yard touchdown pass from rookie quarterback Jake Plummer to fullback Larry Centers with five seconds left.

Hit of the week: By Redskins cornerback Darryl Pounds, who forced, recovered and then returned a fumble by Eagles quarterback Bobby Hoying 18 yards for a touchdown 1:30 into the game.

Oddity of the week: The Panthers had a 98-yard drive against the Rams—and failed to score.

Top rusher: Sanders' 184-yard effort against the Jets was his 14th consecutive 100-yard game, extending his NFL record.

Top passer: Eric Zeier was 28-of-41 for 349 yards and two touchdowns in Baltimore's 16-14 loss at Cincinnati.

Top receiver: Tim Brown caught a Raiders-record 14 passes for 164 yards in Oakland's 20-9 loss to Jacksonville.

Notes: The Jets-Lions game was marred by a life-threatening injury sustained by Detroit linebacker Reggie Brown. Brown, a second-year player from Texas A&M, hurt his neck trying to tackle running back Adrian Murrell early in the fourth quarter. Brown, who was knocked unconscious, lay on the field for about 20 minutes barely moving or breathing before being taken off on a stretcher. It was later revealed that Brown, who was up and walking less than a month later, would have died on the field in not for miraculous work by the Lions' medical staff. . . . The Packers had two 1,000-yard receivers in the same season for the first time: Antonio Freeman (1,243) and Robert Brooks (1,010). . . . Bills special-teams ace Steve Tasker, who earlier had announced his retirement, ended his 13-year career on a sour note. He was ejected from a game against the Packers for arguing after Green Bay's first touchdown—an end-zone fumble recovery by Tyrone Davis. It was Tasker's first ejection. . . . The Giants (7-0-1) became the first team to go undefeated in the NFC East since the division was formed in 1970. . . . Carolina finished 2-6 at home after going 8-0 at Ericsson Stadium the year before. . . . The Eagles (0-7-1) failed to win a road game for the first time since 1970. . . . Seahawks quarterback Warren Moon threw for 232 yards against San Francisco to end the season with 3,678 yards, breaking a club record set by Dave Krieg in 1984. Moon holds the single season passing records for three NFL teams: Houston/Tennessee (4,690), Minnesota (4,264) and Seattle. . . . The Raiders ended the season at 4-12, their worst record of the Al Davis era. . . . 49ers kicker Gary Anderson booted three field goals against Seattle to increase his career total to 385, breaking Nick Lowery's NFL record of 383. Falcons kicker Morten Andersen, like Anderson a 16-year vet, tied a record held by Lowery for most 100-point seasons (11). . . . The Cardinals allowed 78 sacks in 1997, the second-highest total in NFL history. The Eagles allowed 104 in 1986. . . . The Cowboys finished the season with six rushing touchdowns, their fewest since the 1960 and '61 teams also had six. . . . Did the Seahawks have an average season, or what? They were 8-8 overall, 4-4 at home, 4-4 on the road, 4-4 in division games, 6-6 vs. the AFC and 2-2 vs. the NFC. They also scored 365 points and allowed 362, the closest differential of any team in the league. . . . In the persistence pays off category, Redskins third-string quarterback Trent Green finally played in an NFL game. Green, an eighth-round draft choice of the Chargers in 1993, took one snap against the Eagles and threw an incomplete pass. It came in the 64th game of Green's career.

Quote of the week: Raiders coach Joe Bugel, when informed that a "source" from within the team was making critical comments about him, the players and the team's dismal season: "I'd like to meet 'source.' I'd really like to meet that sucker. I've got a few things I'd like to say to him."

WILD-CARD GAMES

AFC

DENVER 42, JACKSONVILLE 17

Why the Broncos won: Their offense dominated, rolling up 511 yards against an overmatched Jacksonville defense. The Broncos rushed for a team playoff-record 310 yards and enjoyed a time of possession advantage of more than 2-1.

Why the Jaguars lost: Beside being unable to stop Denver, the Jaguars did little with the ball when they had it. Mark Brunell, who ran for 44 yards and threw for 245 in a playoff upset on the same field against the Broncos a year earlier, was held to 4 and 203, respectively, in the rematch. Natrone Means, who torched Denver for 140 yards rushing in '96, had 40.

The turning points:

1. The Broncos drove 73 yards on 15 plays on their first possession, scoring on a 2-yard run by Terrell Davis to take a 7-0 lead.

2. With the Broncos up, 14-0, and facing third-and-6 at their 12 in the second quarter, the Jaguars came after quarterback John Elway with an all-out blitz. Elway read it perfectly and unloaded a 40-yard pass to Rod Smith to get the ball near midfield. The Broncos subsequently scored their third touchdown to take a 21-0 lead.

3. After whittling the Broncos' lead to 21-17, Jacksonville had the ball at the Broncos' 16 late in the third quarter. But center Doug Widell, a former Bronco, could not hear Brunell's signal-calling because of the roar of the Mile High Stadium crowd and hiked the ball early. Brunell wasn't ready for the snap and fumbled; linebacker Allen Aldridge recovered for Denver to snuff out Jacksonville's last, best chance. Denver dominated the fourth quarter.

Notable: The Broncos set team playoff records for points and margin of victory as well as rushing yards. . . . Davis (184 yards) and Derek Loville (103) became the third pair of NFL teammates to each rush for 100 yards in the same playoff game. . . . Denver converted its first nine third-down opportunities. . . . The Broncos' offensive line was so dominant it was named NFL "player" of the week.

Quotable: Jaguars coach Tom Coughlin: "It seemed like the line of scrimmage was controlled by Denver from the midpoint of the third quarter on." . . . Broncos defensive end Alfred Williams, after the Jaguars cut a 21-0 deficit to 21-17: "The emotions were so crazy. We go from being up 21-0 to it being a four-point game and all they had was 80 yards of total offense. We got the defense together in a tight huddle on the sidelines. We promised each other that we were not going to let it happen. We just couldn't let it happen again." . . . Elway: "Going into the wind was tough. The first thing I said to myself during warmups was, 'Thank God we have a good running game.' "

NEW ENGLAND 17, MIAMI 3

Why the Patriots won: They didn't play particularly well, especially on offense, but it was good enough to beat a weak Miami team. Whereas the Dolphins committed two critical turnovers, New England didn't have any, and the Patriots' defense hasseled Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino all day.

Why the Dolphins lost: Marino was awful, something that could be attributed to his offensive teammates and the New England defense. He was just 17-of-41, was sacked four times, hurried on many other occasions and finished with a QB rating of 29.3.

The turning points:

1. After a scoreless first quarter, Pats cornerback Larry Whigham deflected a Marino pass toward teammate Chris Slade, who returned the ball 22 yards to Miami's 29. Three plays later, New England scored the first touchdown on Drew Bledsoe's 24-yard pass to Troy Brown.

2. On Miami's first possession of the second half, Marino threw his second interception. Linebacker Todd Collins returned the ball 40 yards for a touchdown and a 14-0 New England lead.

3. On the ensuing kickoff, the Dolphins surprised the Patriots by pulling off a successful onside kick, with Corey Harris recovering for Miami. But on the first play from scrimmage, Marino had the ball jarred loose by a blitzing Chris Canty, and the Patriots recovered.

Notable: The win was the Patriots' third over the Dolphins in five weeks and second in six days. Miami had just 42 yards rushing in each of the last two games. . . . After the game, many Patriots defenders said they knew the plays the Dolphins were going to run beforehand; Miami's offensive coaches apparently had changed little of the terminology from six days earlier, when the teams met in the NFL's regular-season finale. . . . Marino had his NFL-record streak of 13 consecutive playoff games with at least one touchdown pass come to an end. . . . Miami's 162 yards of total offense was its lowest ever in a playoff game. . . . New England had just one offensive drive longer than 30 yards.

Quotable: Miami coach Jimmy Johnson: "Yeah, they knew exactly what our audibles were. They were laughing at our players during the game about it." . . . Dolphins receiver O.J. McDuffie: "It was frustrating all day. We couldn't get anything going. They were running around, calling out our plays every time we tried to audible. It was like they had a headset on." . . . Dolphins receiver Charles Jordan: "Basically, their defense was better prepared for what we were doing than our offense was." . . . Bledsoe, on Marino: "Dan wasn't able to get rid of it quick because the guys were covered. I sympathize for him. It was a tough experience, but I was happy to see it."

MINNESOTA 23, N.Y. GIANTS 22

Why the Vikings won: After putting his team in a huge hole with a terrible first half, quarterback Randall Cunningham dug the Vikings out of it with a solid second half. His quarterback rating says it all: first half, 16.1; second, 91.5.

Why the Giants lost: The league's youngest team seemed to wilt under playoff pressure. After building a 19-3 halftime lead, the Giants scored just three points the rest of the way. After playing aggressively in the first two periods, they seemed to play not to lose in the final two, and failed to make many routine plays.

The turning points:

1. With his team holding a 16-point lead, Giants running back Tiki Barber fumbled on his 4 on the first possession of the second half. Minnesota recovered, and cut New York's lead to nine points on the next play on a 4-yard touchdown run by Leroy Hoard.

2. With the Giants leading, 22-13, in the final two minutes, Cunningham capped a four-play, 49-yard drive by tossing a 30-yard TD pass to Jake Reed with 1:30 left to cut the deficit to 22-20.

3. On the ensuing kickoff, an onside kick by the Vikings' Eddie Murray bounced off the chest of one of the Giants' "hands" men, wide receiver Chris Calloway. Chris Walsh pounced on the ball for Minnesota at his 39 with 1:25 left. Cunningham then drove the Vikings 56 yards in six plays to set up a 24-yard field goal by Murray with 10 seconds left.

Notable: The 16-point comeback was the fifth biggest in NFL playoff history and the largest by a road team in 25 years. . . . It was the Vikings' first playoff win in nine years and Dennis Green's first as an NFL coach (1-4). . . . It was the Giants' first loss in five wild-card playoff games. . . . Brad Daluiso tied a Giants playoff record with five field goals. . . . Minnesota held New York to 8 yards rushing (82 total yards) in the second half. ... Of Cunningham's 203 yards passing, 97 came in the last two minutes.

Quotable: Reed, who appeared to be out of bounds on his 30-yard TD reception: "If the referee called it in, it was in. A catch is a catch if they count it." . . . Giants coach Jim Fassel: "The Vikings kept fighting on every play. It's a very bitter pill to swallow. They just made the plays." . . . Green: "The victory feels great because I know a lot of guys in this business who have never been in the playoffs. I'm a lucky man."

TAMPA BAY 20, DETROIT 10

Why the Buccaneers won: They played well on both sides of the ball, scoring the game's first 20 points and holding the Lions' high-powered offense in check. Tampa Bay linebacker Derrick Brooks had 10 tackles and cornerback Anthony Parker had eight.

Why the Lions lost: Their three biggest offensive weapons—running back Barry Sanders, wide receiver Herman Moore and quarterback Scott Mitchell—did little. Sanders was held to 65 yards on 18 carries, Moore caught four passes (none in the first half) for 44 yards and Mitchell was just 10-of-25 for 78 yards before being forced out of the game with a concussion late in the third quarter.

The turning points:

1. Leading 3-0, the Bucs drove 89 yards in 17 plays to increase their lead to 10-0 midway through the second quarter. Trent Dilfer completed a 12-yard pass to Mike Alstott and 10- and 20-yarders to Reidel Anthony before hooking up with Horace Copeland on a 9-yard touchdown pass.

2. On the Lions' next possession, Parker intercepted a Mitchell pass and returned it 19 yards to Detroit's 19, setting up Michael Husted's second field goal of the game and giving the Bucs a 13-0 lead.

Notable: The Bucs won their first playoff game since December 29, 1979, when they advanced to the NFC championship game with a 24-17 win over Philadelphia. . . . Sanders was held to fewer than 100 yards rushing for the first time since the Bucs held him to 20 yards in Week 2 (15 games earlier). Sanders had just 15 yards on six carries at halftime. . . . The Lions lost their fifth consecutive playoff game.

Quotable: Detroit coach Bobby Ross: "Offensively speaking, we never got into any kind of rhythm. Their plan was even simpler than we anticipated." . . . Bucs defensive tackle Brad Culpepper: "There's really not a plan to stop Barry; you've just always got to hustle. All week, we'd been hearing Barry this and Barry that. Maybe that was fodder for us." . . . Tampa Bay coach Tony Dungy, on the differences between Sanders and Packers quarterback Brett Favre, who shared MVP honors this season and players the Bucs face twice a year: "With Barry, sometimes like today, circumstances can take him out of the game. You can get ahead, or your offense can control the ball. With Favre, you know he's going to have the ball in his hands every play. He creates more problems to game plan for."

DIVISIONAL PLAYOFFS

AFC

DENVER 14, KANSAS CITY 10

Why the Broncos won: They played well on offense and defense and weren't intimidated by a loud crowd at sold-out Arrowhead Stadium. Terrell Davis scored both Denver touchdowns on 1-yard runs, and John Elway—though his final numbers were modest—threw no interceptions and completed key passes when needed.

Why the Chiefs lost: In the frantic final moments, their offense looked as if it were being choreographed by the Three Stooges. After Andre Rison caught a 23-yard pass from Elvis Grbac to take the ball to Denver's 28 at the two-minute warning, the Chiefs took more than 90 seconds to complete three more passes for a total of 8 yards, primarily because their receivers failed to get out of bounds. Then, needing 2 yards for a first down at Denver's 20 with 19 seconds left, Grbac lofted a fourth-down pass to a double-covered Lake Dawson in the end zone that was batted away.

The turning points:

1. In the first quarter of a scoreless game, Pete Stoyanovich kicked a 34-yard field goal for the Chiefs. But Greg Manusky was called for holding, and Stoyanovich was forced to try again, from 44 yards. He did—and missed.

2. After Kansas City took its only lead of the game on a 12-yard touchdown pass from Grbac to rookie tight end Tony Gonzalez late in the third quarter, the Broncos bounced right back, with Elway hitting wide receiver Ed McCaffrey on a crossing pattern for a 43-yard gain to Kansas City's 1. After being stopped twice, Davis scored the game's final touchdown on his third attempt.

Notable: The teams combined for just 68 rushing yards in the first half. . . . Of Grbac's first nine completions, only one was longer than 10 yards. . . . Elway (3,940) moved into second place behind Joe Montana (5,772) on the NFL's career playoff passing yardage list.

Quotable: Grbac on why the Chiefs went for broke when all they needed was 2 yards on fourth down on the final drive: "I knew it was fourth down, and we had some communication problems with the headset. I couldn't really hear, and I had to call the plays on my own. We didn't play very smart, and we couldn't make the plays when it counted." . . . Broncos linebacker Bill Romanowski on the final drive: "They (the Chiefs) were hurrying, they were scattering, they were trying to make something happen. They were rattled." . . . Elway: "It's tough to come in here and win. (Coach) Marty's (Schottenheimer) teams are always ready to play. When you play him, you know it's going to come right down to the end like it did today. And whoever makes the plays usually wins."

PITTSBURGH 7, NEW ENGLAND 6

Why the Steelers won: Their defense played a solid game, giving up just two field goals and making big plays when needed. With running back Jerome Bettis shut down, quarterback Kordell Stewart stepped up, rushing for a team-high 68 yards and scoring the game's only touchdown.

Why the Patriots lost: Injuries. Running back Curtis Martin didn't play because of an abdominal tear, and tight end Ben Coates (thumb and knee) and wide receiver Terry Glenn (collarbone) were hurt during the game. New England's leading rusher was rookie Sedrick Shaw, a third-stringer who had no carries from scrimmage during the regular season.

The turning points:

1. On New England's first possession, Steelers rookie cornerback Chad Scott picked off a Drew Bledsoe pass and returned it 27 yards to Pittsburgh's 38. Stewart then completed two third-down passes to Charles Johnson before tip-toeing down the sideline on a 40-yard touchdown run.

2. With Pittsburgh clinging to a one-point lead with 3:29 left, Steelers coach Bill Cowher eschewed an almost-certain field goal on fourth down to go for a touchdown. Stewart was stopped for no gain by linebackers Ted Johnson and Tedy Bruschi, giving the Patriots both possession and momentum.

3. With Bledsoe completing six of seven passes and New England driving into scoring range in the final two minutes, Steelers rookie defensive end Mike Vrabel beat Pro Bowl left tackle Bruce Armstrong and stripped the ball from Bledsoe, forcing a fumble that teammate Jason Gildon recovered at Pittsburgh's 34 to preserve the victory.

Notable: Of Stewart's 68 yards rushing, 55 came in the first half. . . . Bettis' 67 yards was his lowest total since he had 63 against Dallas in the season opener. . . . Glenn caught five passes for 96 yards before breaking his collarbone making a third-down catch on the last play of the third quarter.

Quotable: Bledsoe: "When you score only six points, it's hard to win any game. We didn't put the ball in the end zone and we put our defense in some terrible positions. Without Curtis, we knew we weren't going to be able to go out and run it a bunch." . . . New England linebacker Todd Collins, who admitted to pulling up in his pursuit of Stewart, thinking the quarterback had been forced out of bounds: "I should have just unloaded on him, but I hesitated. Why I did that is beyond me. In a 7-6 game, that's something you'll re-live forever." . . . Steelers backup center Jim Sweeney, after the Patriots began moving the ball on offense late in the game: "I was praying on the sideline—praying for somebody to make a big play."

SAN FRANCISCO 38, MINNESOTA 22

Why the 49ers won: They carved up a suspect Minnesota defense that finished 29th in the league during the regular season. Steve Young was 21-of-30 for 224 yards and a touchdown, and Terry Kirby rushed 25 times for 120 yards, both career highs. The first 10 times the 49ers had the ball, they went three-and-out only once.

Why the Vikings lost: After squeaking past a weak Giants team in the first round, they were simply overmatched in the second round. The outcome was never in doubt.

The turning points:

1. After failing to move the ball on their first possession, the Vikings were forced to punt from deep in their end. But Mitch Berger's kick traveled just 12 yards, giving San Francisco possession on Minnesota's 26. Four plays later, William Floyd scored from a yard out for the game's first points.

2. With the score tied at 7 in the second quarter, Vikings cornerback Torrian Gray was flagged for pass interference and fellow rookie Dwayne Rudd, a linebacker, was slapped with an unsportsmanlike penalty, moving the ball to Minnesota's 2. Kirby scored on a 1-yard run to give the Niners a 14-7 lead.

3. On the Vikings' next possession, linebacker Ken Norton Jr. intercepted a Randall Cunningham pass and returned it 23 yards for another 49ers touchdown.

Notable: The victory was San Francisco's team-record 11th in a row at home. . . . 49ers receiver J.J. Stokes caught a career-high nine passes. . . . San Francisco scored a season-high 38 points. . . . Kirby's 100-yard performance was only the third of his five-year career.

Quotable: 49ers tight end Brent Jones: "We thought our receivers versus their secondary was a good matchup, so we went after them. I really felt like if we protected (Young), we could really gash those guys in the secondary." . . . Young: "We just played our offense. That's us. That was kind of a nice display of who we are." . . . Norton on his interception return: "It was strange. I had the tight end covered so well, you really don't think he's going to throw it in there." . . . 49ers coach Steve Mariucci: "It's what we hoped for, what we expected, what we all set out to do way back when. There's still more out there in front of us." . . . 49ers linebacker Gary Plummer on critics of the team's "soft" schedule: "Before we played Minnesota the first time this year, (Vikings coach) Denny Green said our schedule has been nothing but hiccups and giggles. So what I want to know is what was Minnesota—the hiccup or the giggle?"

GREEN BAY 21, TAMPA BAY 7

Why the Packers won: On a day their offense was rusty from a one-week layoff, the Green Bay defense was terrific, forcing Tampa Bay quarterback Trent Dilfer to go 11-of-36 with two interceptions.

Why the Buccaneers lost: They went 0-for-3 in field-goal opportunities early in the game, when they were clearly outplaying the Packers and had a chance to take the lead. One field-goal attempt was blocked, a high snap foiled another, and the Bucs failed to pick up a first down on a shovel pass on a fake field-goal attempt.

The turning points:

1. After defensive tackle Warren Sapp forced a fumble by Packers running back Dorsey Levens and recovered the ball himself at Green Bay's 30, the Bucs botched their third field-goal attempt when Dave Moore's snap sailed over the head of holder Steve Walsh.

2. With the Packers leading 10-0 late in the first half, Tyrone Williams picked off a Dilfer pass and returned it 14 yards to the Bucs' 27. Seven plays later, Ryan Longwell kicked a 32-yard field goal to increase the lead to 13-0.

3. After the Bucs cut the Packers' lead to 13-7 late in the third period, Green Bay responded with a nine-play, 54-yard drive to put the game away. Favre completed two third-down passes to keep the drive alive: a 13-yarder to Levens on third-and-6 and a 23-yarder to a diving Derrick Mayes on third-and-18.

Notable: Levens' 112 yards rushing was a Green Bay playoff record. . . . Sapp finished with seven tackles, three sacks, two forced fumbles and a fumble recovery. . . . The Packers haven't allowed a touchdown pass in 27 quarters. . . . Of Dilfer's 200 yards passing, 80 came on two passes in a 94-yard scoring drive. . . . Green Bay's Antonio Freeman had a 90-yard kickoff return for a touchdown called back because of a holding penalty.

Quotable: Favre on the talking he did with Sapp throughout the game: "It was a friendly conversation most of the time. It was out of respect. He said, 'I'm going to chase you down all day, get used to seeing me.' I said, 'OK.' What could I say? He was back there all day." . . . Bucs coach Tony Dungy on the early field-goal problems: "We wanted nine points and got none. That was the story of the day." . . . Sapp on the end of the Buccaneers' season: "There is no crying going on in this locker room. We know we can build on it. This team is strong in every phase. We just weren't up to the challenge."

CONFERENCE CHAMPIONSHIPS

DENVER 24, PITTSBURGH 21

Why the Broncos won: Running back Terrell Davis and quarterback John Elway were superb, rallying Denver from an early deficit to its first AFC championship in eight years. Davis ran for 139 yards on 26 carries against the NFL's top-ranked rushing defense and Elway completed one key pass after another, especially late in the first half and late in the game.

Why the Steelers lost: Besides being unable to stop Davis and Elway, quarterback Kordell Stewart was dreadful. He committed four turnovers (three interceptions, one fumble) and looked like the first-year starting quarterback he was. You also have to wonder about the Pittsburgh coaching staff, which removed running back Jerome Bettis on many plays in the red zone.

The turning points:

1. The Steelers were leading, 14-10, in the second quarter and had the ball at Denver's 35 when Stewart inexplicably threw into double coverage in the end zone. The pass was intercepted by Broncos cornerback Ray Crockett.

2. After the Steelers drove to Denver's 5 in the third quarter, Stewart was intercepted again, this time by linebacker Allen Aldridge, killing another scoring opportunity for Pittsburgh.

3. Despite Stewart's struggles, the Steelers still had a chance if they could pin the Broncos deep in their territory and force a punt with Denver clinging to a three-point lead late in the game. But with the Broncos facing third-and-6 at their 15 with 1:46 left, Elway completed an 18-yard pass to tight end Shannon Sharpe, and Pittsburgh never got the ball again.

Notable: Denver became only the fourth of 92 wild-card teams since 1978 to advance to the Super Bowl. . . . Elway was 6-of-6 for 68 yards on back-to-back scoring drives that helped the Broncos turn a 14-10 deficit into a 24-14 lead. . . . Davis gained 43 yards on his first carry of the game and became the first player to rush for 100 yards against the Steelers since New England's Curtis Martin did it in the 1996 playoffs. . . . Elway improved his record in AFC title games to 4-1. He also became the second-oldest quarterback to lead a team to the Super Bowl. Johnny Unitas was 44 days older when he led the Baltimore Colts to Super Bowl V against the Cowboys in 1971. . . . The Steelers allowed only two rushing touchdowns at Three Rivers Stadium all season—and both were scored by Davis. . . . After winning only one road playoff game (the 1986 AFC championship game at Cleveland) in their history before the 1997 season, the Broncos had two in two weeks (Kansas City and Pittsburgh).

Quotable: Elway on the key completion to Sharpe: "I had to make a quick decision, and fortunately it was the right one." . . . Davis: "We knew we had to run the ball to even have a chance. We were committed to the run." . . . Stewart: "I didn't play my best game. I think if I would have played my best game, we would have won." . . . Broncos defensive end Neil Smith on Stewart: "This was a big game, and he made his mistakes. He'll have his time, but his time isn't now." . . . Elway: "I'm not satisfied. We've won the AFC before. I won't be satisfied until we win the next one."

GREEN BAY 23, SAN FRANCISCO 10

Why the Packers won: Quarterback Brett Favre and the defense were outstanding. Favre was 16-of-27 for 222 yards and a touchdown, and the Green Bay defense smothered quarterback Steve Young and the 49ers' running game.

Why the 49ers lost: The game was played on a muddy field, an apt analogy for the 49ers' performance. They never got untracked. The Niners were held to 33 yards rushing, committed 59 yards in penalties in the first half alone and began eight drives inside their 20.

The turning points:

1. With Green Bay leading, 3-0, Young hit wide receiver J.J. Stokes for a 43-yard gain deep into Packers' territory early in the second quarter. But Terrell Owens fumbled on a reverse for a 7-yard loss, and Eugene Robinson picked off a Young pass on the next play, returning the ball 58 yards to San Francisco's 28. Two plays later, Favre tossed a 27-yard touchdown pass to Antonio Freeman.

2. After the 49ers cut the Packers' lead to 10-3 on Gary Anderson's 28-yard field goal with 58 seconds left in the first half, Green Bay bounced right back, with Favre completing a 40-yard pass to Freeman with three seconds left in the half, setting up a 43-yard Ryan Longwell field goal. The Packers had their 10-point lead back and were never threatened.

Notable: Green Bay beat San Francisco for the fourth consecutive time. . . . The Packers became only the third team to eliminate the same opponent from the playoffs three consecutive years. Dallas eliminated San Francisco from 1970 through '72 and Green Bay in 1993, '94 and '95. . . . Dorsey Levens set a Packers playoff rushing record for the second consecutive game. One week after gaining 112 yards against the Buccaneers, he gained 114 against the 49ers. . . . Levens became the first back to rush for 100 yards against San Francisco this season. . . . Young completed his first 10 passes and had 198 yards passing at halftime. In the second half, he threw for only 52 yards. . . . The 49ers had a team record 11-game home-field winning streak come to an end. . . . The average start for a 49ers possession was their 17; the Packers' average was their 47. . . . Robinson's interception was only the seventh thrown by Young this season. . . . Longwell, a rookie, had been cut by the 49ers before the start of training camp.

Quotable: Young on the 49ers' performance: "I liken it to a train wreck. We were making mistake after mistake." . . . Favre on the playing conditions that deteriorated as the game wore on: "It was terrible. I feel bad for Steve, having to throw the ball in those types of conditions. It was impossible to make anything happen. So we were fortunate to have a chance to run the ball." . . . 49ers linebacker Gary Plummer: "The thing that was so distressing is that the plays (the Packers) were effective on were the things we worked on. They'd go to three wide receivers to one side and just throw that slant." . . . Robinson on his interception: "I just wanted to get to the ball. Then the more I ran, the more my legs got tired from the mud."

SUPER BOWL XXXII

AT QUALCOMM STADIUM, SAN DIEGO, JANUARY 25, 1998

DENVER 31, GREEN BAY 24

Why the Broncos won: Their offensive line was indomitable and running back Terrell Davis was unstoppable, carrying 30 times for 157 yards and scoring a Super Bowl-record three rushing touchdowns. Denver's offensive line continually pushed around Green Bay's much larger defensive line, and Davis' only mistake was a fumble on the first play of the second half that led to a Packers field goal.

Why the Packers lost: They made too many mistakes. Quarterback Brett Favre committed two first-half turnovers that resulted in 10 Denver points, and the defense—besides being unable to stop Davis—shot itself in the foot with ill-timed errors. No NFC team had committed a Super Bowl turnover in three years, but the Packers, with three, made up for it.

The turning points:

1. After the Packers scored first on a 22-yard TD pass from Favre to Antonio Freeman four minutes into the game, the Broncos bounced right back, driving 58 yards in 10 plays after Vaughn Hebron returned the kickoff 32 yards to his 42. The drive appeared stalled when John Elway threw incomplete on third-and-10 from the Packers' 46, but a holding penalty against cornerback Doug Evans kept the drive alive.

2. After Green Bay scored 10 points to erase a 17-7 Denver lead, the Broncos drove 92 yards in 13 plays to regain the lead on a 1-yard TD run by Davis. Elway and wide receiver Ed McCaffrey hooked up for a 36-yard completion to the Packers' 33, and Elway later scrambled eight yards for a first down at the 4.

3. With the game tied at 24 with 3:27 left, the Broncos took over at the Packers' 49 after a 39-yard punt by Green Bay's Craig Hentrich. Davis gained 2 yards on first down, but defensive tackle Darius Holland was penalized 15 yards for grabbing Davis' facemask, moving the ball to the Packers' 32. After a 1-yard gain by Davis, fullback Howard Griffith picked up a block by McCaffrey to turn a short pass into a 23-yard gain to the Packers' 8. Davis ran 7 yards to the 1 on the following play. The run was nullified by a holding penalty, but Davis responded with a 17-yard gallop to the same spot on the next play, setting up his 1-yard TD run.

Notable: The Super Bowl victory was the first by an AFC team since January 22, 1984, when the Raiders beat the Redskins, 38-9. . . . At 37 years, 6 months, 28 days, Elway became the oldest quarterback to win a Super Bowl. . . . The Broncos joined the 1980 Raiders as the only wild-card teams to win the Super Bowl. . . . For the first time in the game's history, both teams scored a touchdown on their first possession. . . . Elway and defensive backs Tyrone Braxton and Steve Atwater were the only players left from Denver's last Super Bowl team (1989 season). . . . Elway joined Roger Staubach, Terry Bradshaw and Joe Montana as the only quarterbacks to start four Super Bowls. . . . Including Denver's four post-season games, Davis set an NFL record for most carries in one season with 481.

Quotable: Packers defensive coordinator Fritz Shurmur: "(The Broncos) didn't do anything really that we hadn't seen on tape. But in the last three games, their offensive line was playing as well as I had seen anyone play all year." . . . Elway on his personal Super Bowl travails (0-3 before this one): "You wonder if you're going to win or if you're going to run out of years." . . . Packers coach Mike Holmgren: "In kind of a strange way—John Elway, I've always enjoyed him. I just wished he hadn't done it against me." . . . Braxton on Favre: "We knew from watching films that he can be careless at times. We were looking for that at some point. We just wanted to disguise things the best we could." . . . Sharpe on the underdog Broncos' win: "So many people have told me, 'I can't believe the Broncos won.' Deal with it. It's history."

PRO BOWL

AT ALOHA STADIUM, HONOLULU, FEBRUARY 1, 1998

AFC 29, NFC 24

Why the AFC won: The third quarterback it used in the game, 41-year-old Seattle starter Warren Moon, had just enough gas left to rally the AFC from a 10-point fourth-quarter deficit. Moon, who was summoned to Hawaii after Denver's John Elway asked out because of impending shoulder surgery, completed four of eight passes for 89 yards on the final drive before scoring the winning touchdown himself on a 1-yard run with 1:49 left.

Why the NFC lost: After leading or being tied for the lead for the first 51 minutes, the NFC fell apart in the last nine minutes, giving up two touchdowns and one field goal to blow the lead. Both touchdowns came after fumbles—by Bucs running back Warrick Dunn and Falcons quarterback Chris Chandler.

The turning points:

1. The NFC saw its 21-7 halftime lead shrink to seven points when Pats quarterback Drew Bledsoe and Jaguars receiver Jimmy Smith hooked up on a 14-yard TD pass early in the third quarter.

2. After the teams exchanged field goals early in the fourth period, the AFC cashed in on fumbles by Dunn, a rookie, and Chandler, a 10-year veteran, to score the game's final two touchdowns. Moon threw a 57-yard pass to Oakland's Tim Brown to set up a 4-yard TD run by Eddie George with 2:31 left, and Moon ran one yard for the game-winning TD four plays after Chandler fumbled at his own 16.

Notable: The AFC won the Super Bowl and Pro Bowl in the same season for the first time in 21 years. . . . Moon, the game's MVP, became the oldest player to score a touchdown in the Pro Bowl. He was three years and three months older than the next-oldest player (Redskins cornerback Darrell Green) and even older than his coach, Pittsburgh's Bill Cowher (40). . . . The 49ers' Steve Young threw TD passes to the Lions' Herman Moore and the Cardinals' Rob Moore to increase his career Pro Bowl total to four, the most of any player. . . . Chandler was an injury replacement for Packers quarterback Brett Favre who, like Elway, did not play because of injury. . . . The game was spiced by a fight between 49ers guard Kevin Gogan and Broncos defensive end Neil Smith early in the fourth quarter. . . . For the second consecutive year, a fan kicked a 35-yard field goal at halftime as part of a promotion to win $1 million. A year ago, it was a 26-year-old New York investment banker named Lance Alstodt. This year, it was a 32-year-old home improvement store manager from Cleveland, Tenn., named Dennis Crawford.

Quotable: Moon, who was playing for the first time since the Seahawks' season ended six weeks earlier: "I've been staying in shape since the season ended, but I haven't been throwing, so I was a little rusty." . . . Moon, who likely snatched the MVP award from Young with his big fourth quarter: "Steve played great in the first half and he was the front-runner if the NFC would have won. But I guess when you make the plays at the important time of the game, that has a lot to do with being the most valuable player." . . . Cowher: "Even though (Moon) is older than I am, I thought he could run the quarterback sneak pretty well.". . . Young, on Chander: "Poor Chris Chandler showed up on Friday. That's not fair. He hadn't played in a month." . . . Moon, on accepting the invitation to his ninth Pro Bowl: "It's an honor, playing in the Pro Bowl. And when you have an opportunity to come over here, you don't turn it away. If I was voted in, I would be here. I guarantee you. I might not be here on time, but I'll be here."

THE LONGEST DAY

In the longest game in NFL history, the Miami Dolphins defeated the Kansas City Chiefs, 27-24, on Christmas Day 1971 in the first round of the AFC playoffs. Garo Yepremian's 37-yard field goal won it for Miami in the second overtime—after 82 minutes and 40 seconds of play—after Chiefs counterpart Jan Stenerud missed a 31-yard attempt with 35 seconds left in regulation time. Kickers aside, the hero of the game was Chiefs running back Ed Podolak, who gained 350 yards on rushes, receptions and returns. It was the last game played at Kansas City's Municipal Stadium.

JUICE WAS HOT

On December 16, 1973, O.J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills rushed for 200 yards against the New York Jets, becoming the first player to rush for 2,000 in an NFL season. The feat has since been accomplished two more times—by Eric Dickerson in 1984 and Barry Sanders in 1997—but both of those players needed 16 games to reach the milestone. Simpson did it in 14. The 200-yard game was Simpson's third that season, and he still holds the league record with six career 200-yard games. The 1973 Bills became the first NFL team to rush for 3,000 yards in a season.

NO HEISMAN JINX FOR T.D.

In a case of the rich getting richer, the Dallas Cowboys—on the heels of a division-winning, 11-win season in 1976—used the second pick in the 1977 draft to select Heisman Trophy-winning running back Tony Dorsett of Pittsburgh. (The Cowboys had acquired the No. 2 pick in a trade with the Seattle Seahawks.) And Dorsett didn't disappoint, rushing for 1,007 yards and scoring 12 touchdown as a rookie and helping Dallas win its second Super Bowl. He was a consensus choice for NFL Rookie of the Year.

THE BIGGEST COMEBACK

In a harbinger of things to come, the San Francisco 49ers rallied from a 35-7 deficit to beat New Orleans, 38-35, on December 7, 1980. An otherwise meaningless late-season game became the biggest comeback in NFL history as the 49ers tied the game with a touchdown with 1:50 left and won it on Ray Wersching's 36-yard field goal at 7:40 of overtime. Second-year quarterback Joe Montana threw two touchdown passes for San Francisco to offset the three TD passes Archie Manning tossed for the Saints, who finished the season with the league's worst record (1-15).

As a result of a 57-day players' strike, the 1982 NFL regular season schedule was reduced from 16 weeks to 9. At the conclusion of the regular season, a 16-team Super Bowl Tournament was held. Eight teams from each conference were seeded 1 through 8 based on their records during regular season play.

Miami finished ahead of Cincinnati based on a better conference record. Pittsburgh won common games tiebreaker with San Diego after New York Jets were eliminated from three-way tie based on conference record. Cleveland finished ahead of Buffalo and Seattle based on better conference record. Minnesota, Atlanta, St. Louis and Tampa Bay seeds were determined by best won-lost record in conference games. Detroit finished ahead of New Orleans and the New York Giants based on a better conference record.

A GAME FOR THE AGES

In a game voted the NFL's "Game of the '80s" by the Pro Football Hall of Fame, the San Diego Chargers beat the Miami Dolphins, 41-38, in an AFC divisional playoff game on January 2, 1982. The two teams combined to set 11 NFL playoff records, including most points (79) and most total yards (1,036). Five players caught passes for at least 100 yards, including Chargers tight end Kellen Winslow, who caught 13 passes for 166 yards. Winslow also blocked a 43-yard field goal attempt by the Dolphins' Uwe von Schamann on the final play of regulation time, enabling Rolf Benirschke to win it for San Diego with a 29-yard field goal at 13:52 of overtime.

DAN'S THE MAN

In 1984, Dan Marino of the Miami Dolphins had perhaps the greatest season of any quarterback in NFL history. In only his second year Marino led the league in attempts (564), completions (362), yards (5,084), average gain per pass attempt (9.0), percentage of TDs per attempt (8.5), touchdowns (48) and QB rating (108.9). His yards, TDs and completion totals set NFL records. It took Marino just eight games to break Bob Griese's team record for touchdown passes in a season and nine games to break Griese's yardage mark. At 23, Marino also became the youngest quarterback to take his team to the Super Bowl, where the Dolphins lost to the 49ers.

DOUBLE GRAND

In 1985, Roger Craig of the San Francisco 49ers did something no NFL player had done before or has done since—rush for more than 1,000 yards and catch passes for more than 1,000 in the same season. Craig's final numbers were 1,050 yards rushing on 214 attempts and 1,016 yards receiving on a NFL-high 92 receptions. Despite Craig's heroics, the 49ers had (for them) one of their most disappointing seasons of the 1980s. Although they won 10 games, the defending Super Bowl champions finished second to the Rams in the NFC West and lost in the first round of the playoffs.

BENGALS HAD BITE

In one of the most improbable turnarounds in NFL history, the Cincinnati Bengals went from being a sack-sad, 4-11 team in 1987 to within 34 seconds of winning the Super Bowl a year later. Many players stepped up their level of play in 1988, as nine Cincinnati players were selected to the Pro Bowl. But it was someone who wasn't Pro Bowl-bound—rookie running back Ickey Woods—who sparked the turnaround. Woods, a second-round draft choice from UNLV, rushed for 1,066 yards that season and performed what came to be known as the "Ickey Shuffle" after every touchdown he scored. He performed it 15 times that year.

A STACKED CUPBOARD

Some first-time NFL head coaches inherit terrible teams. In 1989, George Seifert inherited a great one. After succeeding Bill Walsh in San Francisco, Seifert did what his predecessor had done the year before: win a Super Bowl. The 49ers simply dominated the NFL in 1989, winning a league-high 14 games (10 of them by at least 10 points) and losing just twice (by a combined five points). They won their three playoff games by a combined score of 126-26, including 55-10 over Denver in the most lopsided Super Bowl ever.

QB III

In the final hurrah of his Hall of Fame coaching career, Joe Gibbs led the Washington Redskins to their third Super Bowl title in 10 years in January 1992. Chuck Noll and Bill Walsh also had coached as many Super Bowl winners, but Gibbs outdid both of them in one respect: he had different quarterbacks in every one. Whereas Noll won four Super Bowls with Terry Bradshaw calling the signals and Walsh won three with Joe Montana, Gibbs won his with Joe Theismann, Doug Williams and Mark Rypien.

FOUR IN A ROW

In 1993, the Buffalo Bills accomplished something unprecendented in NFL history: they played in the Super Bowl for a fourth successive year. Although they lost all four—joining the Minnesota Vikings and Denver Broncos as the only four-time Super Bowl losers—their achievement should not be minimized. Fifteen different Bills played in the Pro Bowl over the four-year span (1990 through '93), including perennials Cornelius Bennett, Jim Kelly, Andre Reed, Bruce Smith and Thurman Thomas.

TWO FOR THE SHOW

The 1995 season marked the debut of two new teams for the first time in 19 seasons: the Carolina Panthers and the Jacksonville Jaguars. Although neither team was a serious contender (that would take a year), neither was an embarrassment, either. The Panthers went 7-9 in the NFC West and the Jaguars went 4-12 in the AFC Central. It was a far cry from 1976, when the expansion Seattle Seahawks and Tampa Bay Buccaneers—who were afforded few of the first-year perks given the Panthers and Jaguars—combined to go 2-26.

*This chart includes passer rating points for all leaders, although the same rating system was not used for determining leading quarterbacks prior to 1973. The old system was less equitable, yet similar to the new in that the rating was based on percentage of completions, touchdown passes, percentage of interceptions and average gain in yards.

†Brunell and Jeff George of Oakland (521, 290, 3917, 29, 9), tied with 91.2 rating points, but rounded to another decimal place, Brunell's rating is higher, 91.17 to 91.15.

*This chart includes passer rating points for all leaders, although the same rating system was not used for determining leading quarterbacks prior to 1973. The old system was less equitable, yet similar to the new in that the rating was based on percentage of completions, touchdown passes, percentage of interceptions and average gain in yards.
